

COMMENT OF THE DAY

British Budget Prospects

WHATEVER the Budget proposals which Mr. R. A. Butler intends to place before the House of Commons today, it is hardly likely they will be sensational in character. While the nation's finances are more buoyant than two years ago, its international economic position has improved only relatively. Two weaknesses stand out in the British economy and it can be expected that the 1954 Budget will endeavour to cure them. One is that productive investments have fallen off considerably, and the other is created by the rapidly developing foreign competition to British exports. Both shortcomings were emphasised by Treasury experts in a report published last week and their existence and the need for correction lend credence to the expectation that the Chancellor of the Exchequer will include in the Budget proposals for aiding industry. Two measures to this end are conceivable—a reduction concerning the liquidation of capital and the abolition of tax on non-distributed profits. The first of these measures would favour investments and the second would assist exporters to meet foreign competition.

THE Federation of British Industries recently made it very clear what it believes to be Mr. Butler's most effective way of handling the new Budget—concentrate on repeating the 1953 formula. What the FBI wants, in the form of a further cut in the standard rate of income tax and overall reduction in purchase tax rates, is the mixture as before. But this is by no means all it seeks. Having persuaded the Chancellor to get rid of his worst fiscal abomination, the excess profits levy, last year, it insists that the profits tax, which ranks next in order of harmfulness, must follow it as quickly as possible. Nevertheless, it appears unlikely, at any rate on the basis of relevant data, that Mr. Butler's scope for tax reliefs in this year's Budget will be very wide. The Federation by suggesting that the Chancellor concentrate on the standard rate of income tax and on the purchase tax is, in fact, proposing that other necessarily costly reforms be left in abeyance.

THE whole question of tax relief is one of priorities, but since the main weight of argument relates to the need for more savings and with it the incentive to investment in industry, a cut in the rate of direct tax on earnings and investment income is presumably regarded as the most urgent task of all. That income tax and purchase tax concessions would be widely popular there is no doubt, but it is recollected that a year ago Mr. Butler firmly rejected the proposition of purchase tax reductions largely on the grounds that the Exchequer could not afford to lose the substantial revenue which the tax produces, and it is highly conceivable that he will find it necessary to repeat that objection today. Britain's prime problem remains higher production and increased exports. This is the basis for the nation's full economic recovery and the important task therefore which confronts Mr. Butler, is to provide incentives for the realisation of these two objectives. It is somewhat sobering to have to recognise that evidence so far does not suggest that the general taxation relief for business introduced last year has induced a higher level of industrial development. But this, perhaps, is due to the fact that the relief is not yet sufficiently embracing.

Escalators For Jockey Club's New Grandstand

Full Details Of New Project In Exclusive Story

SELF-CONTAINED GALLERY FLOORS DESIGN

By the end of 1955 the Happy Valley Race Course should have a new eight-storey grandstand building—the most modern in the Far East—which will give Hongkong race-goers more space, more convenient and easily accessible betting facilities, less stair-climbing and a much more enjoyable day at the races.

The Hongkong Jockey Club has commissioned the firm of architects, Leigh and Orange of Hongkong, to draw up plans for the new building which will replace the present central portion of the grandstand. The two adjoining wings which comprise mainly private boxes will remain.

Some features of the new building: there will be no clock tower, but probably a main central clock on the face of the building. And the architects claim that for the first time in the Colony, there will be escalators to the three gallery floors to supplement the lifts and stair-cases. These escalators are reversible so that their direction can be changed at any time to carry large crowds into or out of the galleries. The new building will probably be cream coloured.

Another virtue is that each floor has been designed in such a way that it will be "self-contained". For instance, if you are sitting on the second floor gallery there is no need to go traipsing up and down stairs either to place your bet or to buy a drink. There is on each of the first three floors a long centrally-situated betting and paying out counter and a bar. There are also lavatories on each of these floors.

The reasons for building the new grandstand are well-known: "The present congestion and inconvenience at race meetings due to the volume of attendance have rendered the existing premises out of date and are entailing great difficulties in administration and discomfort to the members," the architects told the Building Authority in a letter detailing its plans. "We consider (this) scheme will undoubtedly solve the prevailing serious problems. Members' accommodation will be greatly increased and a considerable improvement in vertical and horizontal movement of crowds effected by the provision of escalators and stair-cases and lifts at suitable points and the re-siting of the betting and paying-out locations."

PROTECTION FROM RAIN
Under the plans drawn up by the first two galleries have almost complete protection from the rain. The third gallery, however, is slightly more exposed to the elements. The protruding roof covers about three-quarters to seven-eighths of the area of this gallery. In each gallery there are conventional benches for seating. The fifth floor, where there will be the Members' restaurant, and the sixth floor where there will be the Members' bar and the ladies' lounge, will have wide spacious verandahs looking out on to the course.

This modern building is a far cry from the brick and masonry club built in 1893 at a cost of $28,000 and it will be a vast improvement on the existing grandstand built in 1930.

Under the plans the existing central portion of the grandstand will be completely demolished. It is expected work will start in May next year and the architects say they hope to complete the whole scheme during the summer recess. This means the builders will have to work night and day to finish the job in time.

FIND NEW HOME
The demolition of the central section will mean that the weighing room, saddle room, jockeys' room and the stewards' room will have to be moved to the ground floor of the North Wing and that will be their new home. The architects say this will be a handy position for these rooms because of their proximity to the paddocks.

DIEN BIEN PHU BATTLE.
Picture above shows French Union reinforcements being parachuted at Dien Bien Phu, and opposite wounded are given treatment in a first aid post at the besieged fortress. —London Express.

At Dien Bien Phu

Giap Calls Up More Troops

Hanoi, Apr. 5. With Vietnam casualties in the Dien Bien Phu battle now estimated at the equivalent of a full division, the Vietnamese Commander-in-Chief, General Vo Nguyen Giap, is now summoning reinforcements from available units in the north of Vietnam.

Obsessed with gaining a victory at whatever cost before the Geneva Conference on Asia on April 20, General Giap is reducing his strength in areas of secondary importance to throw his full power into the battle for the war-blasted bowl, which consists of nothing but trenches.

The general feeling here is that following on the respite in the battle, new and violent Vietnamese assaults will come.

General Giap appears to need time to reorganise his stocks of food and ammunition. These are brought up by trucks to within a few miles of the stronghold. Thousands of coolies carry them from there to the Vietnamese positions.

General Giap's chief need at the moment, however, is the early replacement of the losses which his forces have suffered in the first two phases of the battle. Reinforcements ordered up from other areas have to come by foot along the many miles of jungle paths and will not be available to fight for several days.

French-Vietnam losses in the battle are admitted to be heavy but comparably less than those sustained by General Giap's forces. —France Presse.

Churchill Turns Down Proposal

London, Apr. 5. Sir Winston Churchill, answered "No sir" today to a suggestion that he invite the French Premier, M. Joseph Laniel, to London to discuss putting an end to the Indo-China war.

Mr. Woodrow Wyatt, Labour member of Parliament, also suggested Sir Winston discuss the US Secretary of State, Mr. John Foster Dulles' proposals to increase United Nations aid to Indo-China.

The Prime Minister said he was already in touch with the French and US governments on the Indo-Chinese issue. —France Presse.

Fire On Warship
Portsmouth, April 5. Fire broke out aboard the HMS Vanguard, flagship of the home fleet, today but was quickly extinguished.

Firemen who went aboard at the jetty where the Vanguard is anchored said a ventilating fan had become overheated. The Admiralty said there was no evidence of sabotage. —United Press.

Russian Soldiers Shoot At And Wound Woman

Vienna, Apr. 5. Russian soldiers wounded a 54-year-old woman and shot at a Viennese policeman in one of the most violent Austrian weekends since the war, the police said today.

The wounded woman, Maria Schmid, said a Russian trooper shot her in the upper leg on Saturday night when she refused his command to halt in a Vienna suburb.

In the second incident, an Austrian policeman said a Soviet officer fired at him with a pistol from the sidewalk of a speeding motorcycle on Sunday afternoon.

At least 10 Austrians died violently over the weekend. Officials counted four slayings, four suicides, three flood drownings and five accidental gas deaths. —United Press.

Second Baby In 3 Weeks

Chelsea, Mass., Apr. 5. For the second time in three weeks, a sailor's wife gave birth to a baby today. The babies, a boy and a girl, are not twins. Mrs. Theima Chapman, 32, bore the second child at Chelsea Naval Hospital. The boy weighed four pounds and six and a half ounces. The mother and baby and the four-pound and four-ounce girl born on March 15 are all doing nicely. The Hospital said Captain L. T. Dorgan, the Hospital's chief obstetrician, said that it was not determined whether both babies were conceived at the same time.

Doctors said that Mrs. Chapman has dual procreative organs, a medical rarity. —United Press.

African Losing His Pigmentation

Johannesburg, Apr. 6. An African in the Wolmaranstad district has been steadily losing his pigmentation over a period of years, and today has a skin which, apart from one or two dark spots, is completely European in appearance.

According to the local district surgeon who has examined him, his skin is lighter than that of many Europeans and his short curly hair is the only thing that sets him apart from a European when seen at close range. At long range there is almost no difference.

"I have never seen anything like it," said the doctor. "He is not an albino. I have known (Contd. on Back Page, Col. 1)

Socialist Motion On H-Bomb Talks Approved

TIMING OF APPROACH IS LEFT TO GOVERNMENT

London, Apr. 6. The British Government last night agreed there should be top-level talks with the United States and Russia on the hydrogen bomb.

Mr. Anthony Eden, the Foreign Secretary, winding up a full-scale debate in the House of Commons, accepted a Labour Opposition motion calling for an immediate British initiative to bring about a meeting between Sir Winston Churchill, President Eisenhower and the Soviet Prime Minister, Mr. Georgi Malenkov on disarmament and strengthening collective security through the United Nations.

But he insisted that the Government must have the final word on the timing of an approach on the highest level. After his speech the motion was unanimously agreed to without a vote.

Earlier the Prime Minister, Sir Winston Churchill, told the House that with the Geneva Far East conference pending, "there could hardly be a more ill-chosen moment for a meeting of the heads of states and governments."

But while objecting to the word "immediate" in the Labour motion, the Prime Minister declared: "We shall seek by every means open to us an easing of international tension."

Mr. Herbert Morrison, Deputy Leader of the Opposition, explained that by "immediate" the Opposition meant "to start saying the Government accepted the Labour motion."

Mr. Morrison said that the word "immediate" in the opposition's motion meant that the Government should take "immediate diplomatic action in the best and most effective way to get a meeting."

Mr. Anthony Eden, the Foreign Secretary, began his reply by saying the Government accepted the Labour motion. Mr. Eden said: "What I can say is this: the moment we think there is the least opportunity of a meeting at high level, being fruitful we shall not hesitate to go for it."

"We will use every power, every influence and every initiative to try and promote progress on this issue together with a relaxation of international tension which bedevils everything else." —Reuter.

NOT IN EFFECT
Washington, Apr. 5. The White House said today that a 1943 agreement between Sir Winston Churchill and President Roosevelt, banning the use of atom bombs except with each other's consent, was "not in effect at the present time."

Sir Winston Churchill disclosed the terms of the secret agreement in the House of Commons today.

President Eisenhower's press secretary, Mr. James Hagerty, said it was true that Sir Winston Churchill spoke with Mr. Eisenhower's assent. —Reuter.

just arrived! these big money savers and prestige builders

It's new, economical and roomy; provides 70 cubic feet of load space. It's smart; possessing styling that adds advertising value to every journey it makes. It's speedy; the new O.H.V. engine, as fitted to the famous Morris Minor car, gives express carrier performance with irrefutable economy in running costs. It's here for you to see—to drive in a fact proving demonstration run.

THE NEW MORRIS 1/4-TON VAN

NOW ON VIEW
DODWELL MOTORS LTD
QUEEN'S BLDG. TEL. 33322

KING'S PRINCESS EMPIRE

At 2.30, 5.15, 7.20 & 9.30 p.m. At 2.30, 5.30, 7.30 & 9.30 p.m. At 2.30, 5.30, 7.30 & 9.30 p.m.

HELD OVER!

TO-DAY ONLY!

TRY NOT TO MISS:

KING'S COMMENCING TO-MORROW

THE ONE MILLION U.S. DOLLAR PRODUCTION THAT HAS TOPPED ROME'S NEW EMPIRE.

— Time Magazine

ANNA MAGNANI
IN "THE GOLDEN COACH"
IN color by TECHNICOLOR

(English Version)

Music by Antonio Vivaldi - Directed by JEAN RENOIR

EMPIRE PRINCESS

DEFINITELY COMMENCING TO-MORROW

WITH ENGLISH SUB-TITLES

KING'S PRINCESS EMPIRE

COMING ATTRACTION

CAPITOL LIBERTY

LAST 2 DAYS
AT 2.30, 5.30, 7.30 & 9.30 P.M.
ON PANORAMIC SCREEN
The BIGGEST MUSICAL OF ALL-TIMEALSO: Latest "NEWS OF THE DAY"
COMMENCING THURSDAY

STH. KOREAN ELECTIONS

IN MAY

1,300 Candidates

To Contest

203 Assembly Seats

Seoul, Korea, Apr. 6.

As the nations gather in Geneva to discuss a final settlement for his war-torn country, President Syngman Rhee, of the Republic of South Korea, will be facing the problems of a general election.

The election, to choose a National Assembly to replace the present one, has been tentatively fixed for May 20. The Geneva Conference meets on April 26, and will, in all probability, still be in session when the Korean election takes place on May 20.

As the election campaign gets into full swing, the situation is becoming more and more fluid and complicated.

According to an unofficial estimate of the Central Election Commission, about 1,300 candidates will contest the 203 seats in the next National Assembly.

The National Assembly actually has 219 seats but as several districts lie north of the cease-fire line, the next Assembly will have only 203 seats.

Of the 1,300 expected candidates, about 200 will stand for the pro-Government, Liberal Party with the official support of the party, and about 100 for the Opposition, Democratic Nationalist Party. The remaining 1,000 are described as "independent" although they will include many Liberals and Democratic Nationalists who are not officially supported by the party.

As the election campaign gathers force, all the candidates are faced with the problem of financial backing. The Liberal Party has considerable funds. But its organization is extensive and it is doubtful whether every candidate of the party will get any substantial financial support.

On the other hand, Opposition politicians expect to receive campaign funds from rich overseas Koreans. The former Prime Minister and Ambassador to the United States, Mr. John Chang, and his followers are believed to be connected with anti-Rhee residents in the United States and the Chairman of the Assembly, Mr. P. H. Shinicky, and members of his Democratic Nationalist party are said to have many supporters among rich Koreans living in Japan.

But they will be taking risks if they bring in campaign funds from abroad. Liberal Assemblymen have recently pushed through a bill providing for "heavy penalties up to death" for those who use "foreign capital" for political purposes.

The Government has also banned the import of "unauthorized publications and printings" from Japan. Observers say that this means that Mr. Shinicky and other Democratic Nationalists will no longer be able to have their brief biographies and campaign pamphlets printed in Japan.

One of the characteristics of the coming election, officials of the Election Commission say, will be the candidacy of many Cabinet Ministers, former Ministers, other political leaders and 17 military men. Three Cabinet Ministers have already resigned, including Vice-Chief of Naval Operations, have been transferred to the reserve, in order that they may stand as candidates.

Among political leaders expected to run are the former Prime Minister, Mr. John Chang, who was supported as Presidential candidate by anti-Rhee members of the Assembly in the summer of 1952. The Democratic Nationalist Party's Chough Pyung-ok, who was attacked by terrorists last summer for his support of the Allied ceasefire negotiations, is also running. The former Minister for Education, Mr. George Park, is regarded as another certain candidate, while the former Defence Minister, Mr. Lee Ki-poong, now a central committee member of the Liberal party will stand as a Liberal.

All these former Ministers, if elected, will make their debut in the legislature.

UP-HILL FIGHT
Almost all the leading Assemblymen are, of course, seeking re-election.

In addition to these more or less conservative candidates, there is a minority group of liberal elements running for the coming elections. Mostly under the influence of Assembly Vice-Chairman Cho Bong-shin, who was a runner-up in the last presidential election, they will run as Independents on an individual basis as they have no party.

About 30 followers of Cho in the Assembly and some other liberal candidates will have an up-hill fight in the elections both because they are exposed to attack from every other rival and because there are very few political funds, if any, available for them.

The most important, probably decisive, factor of all, however, is the Liberal Party, which is suffering from the purge of the former Prime Minister and Home Minister, Mr. Lee Bum-suk, and his followers from the party on direct orders from President Rhee.

Since the purge, party leadership has shifted to three personal associates of President Rhee. These include the former Defence Minister, Mr. Lee Ki-poong, but they are all inexperienced in organisational work. Despite strenuous efforts in the past six months to re-shape the party, it still has organisational weaknesses.

Political experts here believe it is doubtful whether the party will regain sufficient strength before the election to win a solid majority in the legislature. — China Mail Special.

Israel Complains

New York, Apr. 5. The Israeli Delegation to the United Nations lodged a formal complaint today with the Security Council against Jordan charging flagrant violations of the armistice agreement.

The complaint dealt with Jordan's refusal to participate in a conference with Israel in order to revise implementation procedures of the armistice agreement between the two countries.

The complaint also referred to the recent attack on passengers of an Israeli bus and other attacks allegedly committed by Jordanians.

The complaint said all these attacks occurred before the Nahal incident in which Jordanians were reported to have been killed by Israeli forces. — France-Press.

Britain To Have Tax Cuts?

London, Apr. 5.

The Conservative Government today approved Britain's Budget for this year which taxpayers hope will give the economy another shot of "incentive" tax reductions.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. R. A. Butler, will disclose the 1954-55 Budget in a speech to the House of Commons tomorrow. The Cabinet approved it early this afternoon.

With the British economy balanced and booming, experts forecast that Mr. Butler will give mild tax concessions to try to stimulate vital exports, but otherwise try to keep the present even keel.

Figures already published show that more than one-third will go for defence. And the shadow and bitterness of the big 11-bomb debate today will still hang over Budget Day, traditionally the high point of the Parliamentary year.

Expenditures this year are expected to total around £4,525,000,000. A total of £1,040,000,000 will go for defence.

How Mr. Butler will raise the money is the secret of Budget Day, a gala occasion when many members of Parliament wear top hats.

This is Mr. Butler's third Budget. The previous two have established him as undisputed No. 3 man in the Conservative Government, behind the Prime Minister, Sir Winston Churchill, and the Foreign Secretary, Mr. Anthony Eden.

For two consecutive years he has slashed taxes and put Britain back on the road to a freer economy after six years of Socialism. His Budgets have added greatly to Conservative electoral popularity. — United Press.

General Vandenberg Buried

Washington, Apr. 5. General Hoyt S. Vandenberg was buried today in Arlington National Cemetery.

The 56-year-old former Air Force Chief of Staff, who died of cancer on Friday, received the final traditional military rites of a fallen hero.

Before the burial, President Eisenhower attended funeral services for General Vandenberg in Washington Cathedral conducted by the Very Rev. Francis B. Sayre, Dean of the Cathedral, and West Point chaplain Frank E. Pulley. The President did not go to the burial.

Scores of Congressmen, military leaders, and civilian chiefs went to the Cathedral where General Vandenberg's body had lain since Saturday in a flag-draped casket before a bugle-flower-banked altar. — United Press.

Civil Servant Dismissals Cause Confusion

Washington, Apr. 5.

The American Civil Liberties Union has charged that the Administration's breakdown of security risk dismissals from Government jobs created "widespread confusion and an increase in public tension."

It urged the Civil Service Commission, Mr. Philip Young, to undo "the harm... not only to these individuals, but to the spirit of civil liberties."

"The principles of free speech and association, due process and equality cannot flourish throughout the country if the public is continually dinned with fearful warnings that thousands of Government employees today are disloyal," the organization said in a letter to Mr. Young.

It contended that Mr. Young's breakdown of security risk dismissals to Congress was not based on the reasons for discharge but on "deceitful and unconvincing information."

Mr. Young has told Congress that 2468 Government employees were dropped as security risks since the Eisenhower Administration's loyalty-security programme went into effect last May.

He said that 429 had "subversive" information in their files. — United Press.

Japan Again Arrested

Georgetown, Apr. 5. Dr. Cheddi Jagan, deposed Premier of British Guiana and two other People's Progressive Party leaders were arrested today again shortly after being released on £50 bail, for breach of emergency regulations.

The two others were Martin Charteris and W. J. Williams. Another PPP leader, Pandit Misra, was arrested with them. — France-Press.

Call To Reject Japanese-P.I. Peace Treaty

Manila, Apr. 5. Senator Claro Recto tonight filed a resolution with the Senate, asking for the rejection of the Japanese peace treaty and cessation of friendly relations between the Philippines and Japan.

Political observers said the resolution, reflecting Recto's reaction to the report on a 30,000,000 pesos Japanese lobby to secure the Senate's approval of the treaty.

Senator Recto said that after two years of negotiations Japan "has been unable to arrive at a just and equitable settlement of the Philippines' claims and further efforts by the Philippines Government towards this end would prove unavailing."

Senator Recto said despite Tokyo's denials, the Philippines have discovered that Japan is in a position to pay satisfactory reparations.

Congress journalists reported that Senator Recto's resolution has gained widespread support from fellow Government Nationalist Party Senators. — Reuter.

High Tides In UK Subside

London, Apr. 5. Flood watchers relaxed along the English east coast today as dangerously high spring tides subsided without serious trouble.

Water entered some homes in the Hull industrial area, and basements and part of the park at Richmond up to the River Thames were flooded. — China Mail Special.

QUEEN'S & ALHAMBRA

TO-DAY ONLY

JOHN WAYNE
IN Island in the Sky
PRESENTED BY WARNER BROS.
 OPENS TO-MORROW *****
QUEEN'S ALHAMBRA
"RHAPSODY IN BLUE" "HUMORESQUE"
With An All Star Cast! Joan Crawford-John Garfield

ROXY & BROADWAY

★ FINAL SHOWING TO-DAY ★

AT 2.30, 5.30, 7.30 & 9.30 P.M.

Coyukiko • Wakago Fumiko
Okajirize • Unosagayozo
In
"THE LADY CHATTERLEY'S LOVER OF JAPAN"

查泰萊夫人
A Japanese Picture
In Mandarin Dialogue

With Superimposed English Sub-titles
 OPENS TO-MORROW *****
Awarded Winner of Venice Film Exhibition of 1950!
Pierre FRESNAY • Madeleine ROBINSON

"GOD NEEDS MEN"
A French Picture
Original Title: "ISLE OF SINNERS"

With Superimposed English Sub-titles
★ BOOKINGS NOW OPEN ★

Get Aboard the Technicolor "PARIS EXPRESS" with Claude RAINS • Marta TOREN for suspense and excitement!

Tickets available soon

at the ROXY & BROADWAY THEATRES

LEE Theatre GREAT WORLD

SHOWING TO-DAY

AT 2.30, 5.30, 7.30 & 9.30 P.M.

 NEXT CHANGE *****

 SPECIAL PERFORMANCE *****
TO-MORROW
AT 12.00 NOON

"THE LADY WITH A LAMP"
for the Celebration of World Health Day, arranged by W. H. O. Group of U.N. ASSN. OF H.K.
At Reduced Prices: $1.50 & $1.00 Tax Incl.

POP

DULLES'S CHARGES SURPRISE

LONDON

Chinese Aid To Vietminh INTERVENTION UNLIKELY AT THIS STAGE

London, Apr. 5. The charges made earlier today by the US Secretary of State, Mr John Foster Dulles, of Chinese Communist participation in the Indo-China war caused some surprise in London today not only for the importance of the revelations but also for their possible consequences.

Sources close to Whitehall said Mr Dulles' statements before the House Foreign Affairs Committee did not mean America would intervene in the Indo-China war, all the more so as the latest reports from Dien Bien Phu said that the French defenders were not only resisting but were also counter-attacking.

These circles believed Mr Dulles' purpose was to warn the Chinese Communists against further direct intervention in Indo-China in case the Vietminh Commander General Giap, failed to take the beleaguered fortress.

They said the Chinese Communist Government would help now that any attempt to help Ho Chi-minh more directly would meet with "united action" from America and its allies.

At the United Nations headquarters, American sources said the Vietminh Communist aid to the Vietminh could not be referred to the UN without France's prior consent.

In Paris, an authoritative source said reports reaching the French Government from Indo-China on the participation of Chinese technicians in the Indo-China fighting were similar to those which Mr Dulles had received.

The source said Mr Dulles had revealed only a part of the information available concerning Chinese participation.

The French Secretary of State for Relations with the Associated States of Indo-China, M. Marc Jacquet, conferred with Premier Joseph Laniel immediately on hearing of Mr Dulles' statements.—France-Press.

FLIGHT CANCELLED

Hanoi, Apr. 5. Fifty-three journalists from eight countries equipped with long-range cameras waited today near Hanoi airport for orders to fly over Dien Bien Phu. The French were going to try to evacuate the wounded fighting the besieged camp but the flight was cancelled.

Back in their press camp, the reporters learnt that in last night's Vietminh assault on the entrenched camp stronghold supporting the airstrip, small groups of the attackers infiltrated on to the airfield where the Red Cross planes were to land.

The attack by young Vietminh suicide squads is regarded as proof that the Vietminh leader, Ho Chi-minh, wants to prevent the wounded from being evacuated without the risk of firing on Red Cross planes in full view of foreign observers.

Meanwhile, the authorities announced the end of the second round in the battle for Dien Bien Phu. The full did not last long, however, for at 7 p.m. the Vietminh mortars and guns began to pound the Franco-Vietnamese positions again, gradually concentrating their fire on the posts to the north-west which protect the routes to the airfield.

FURIOUS BARRAGE

The Vietminh gunners then put a furious barrage on to the already heavily damaged airstrip and in a few minutes made it useless for landings.

Attacks and counter-attacks succeeded each other all night and the position was taken and re-taken several times before the French finally gained the upper hand about 10.30 a.m. The Vietminh troops fell back slightly, leaving 1,000 new dead on the battlefield, already littered with bodies.

The latest Vietminh victims saw recruits of 17 and 18 thrown into battle, while their better trained comrades, used to fighting in this type of country, are kept in technical units.

The Dien Bien Phu battle has now lasted three weeks and though there are sometimes signs of weakening in the Vietminh ranks, yesterday's fighting proves that their vitality is still unimpaired and that the battle can last a long time.—France-Press.

"NOT USEFUL"

London, Apr. 5. A detailed account of British aid to the French in Indo-China would "not be useful or appropriate," the Minister of State for Foreign Affairs, Mr Selwyn Lloyd, said in the House of Commons today.

He told a Labour member, Mr Woodrow Wyatt, the British Government had always considered sympathetically French requests for material assistance in Indo-China but nearly all such requests had been made to the United States.

Mr Lloyd referred to his House of Commons statement on July 13 that Britain had given "a considerable amount of ammunition" to the French for Indo-China.

Mr Wyatt had asked for a statement on the economic aid so far given and proposed to the French in Indo-China.—Reuters.

The Pope Says:

"Doctors Should Help Patients Morally As Well As Physically"

Vatican City, Apr. 5.

Pope Pius XII urged doctors to help their patients morally as well as physically, in a message to the Third International Congress on radiology released here today.

He praised the progress made by X-ray specialists, particularly in the treatment of cancer. He said that the scientists "disclose a bit more every day the treasures placed by the creator in his handiwork."

The message said that "radiology is proving more perfect every day and now holds such a place in general medicine that the latter can no longer ignore its possibilities nor do without its help."

"The rosiest hopes seem justified," the Pope said, "but such a prospect might be met among some by a harmful reaction: over-confidence and its almost automatic corollary, discouragement, when failure follows, yet who would err in giving in to this feeling and thereby abandoning the struggle..."

"But there is still another objective, more worthy and more desirable... Should you not, too, desire to extend your action to the moral level? The meaning of human destiny is not limited to the enjoyment or recovery of perishable health. It extends indefinitely, even to the unspeakable realities of the other world."

"How to accept sickness and suffering, how to profit from them for the purifying of the heart and for esteeming more exactly human values—these are the problems which present themselves to every sick person, and whose solution he consciously or unconsciously seeks."

"If you are willing to help answer these questions all those who will have recourse to you, you will not have to fear any more the failure of your efforts in the medical sphere, nor even the misunderstanding and opposition of those who uphold different methods. Animated by a profound charity, you will perform an action which, besides its temporary efficacy, acquires eternal worth."—United Press.

Yoshida To Visit America

Washington, Apr. 5.

A State Department spokesman confirmed today Japanese Premier Shigeru Yoshida would visit the United States shortly at President Eisenhower's invitation.

The spokesman said the exact date of Mr Yoshida's arrival was not known but recalled that the Secretary of State, Mr John Foster Dulles, had invited Mr Yoshida during his visit to Japan last August.

President Eisenhower had repeated the invitation in a message to the Japanese Premier through the US Ambassador in Japan, Mr John Allison who returned to Washington last February for consultations.—France-Press.

TOTALITARIAN

Dr Wu also called upon President Chiang to vest all political and military powers of his regime in the hands of a Prime Minister, to be selected according to due process of law, and proclaim that the Cabinet system of government will prevail.

In previous communications, Dr Wu has accused President Chiang of fostering a totalitarian form of government.

In his new letter, he proposed Dr Wu Shih as Prime Minister of the first responsible Cabinet.

Dr Wu said his recommendations would be "simple and easy to carry out" if President Chiang decided to "reform" the United Press.

Changed Her Sex

Is The Queen Going To Have A Home In Australia?

Perth, Apr. 5.

The Minister-in-Charge of the Royal Tour in Australia, Sir Eric Harrison, suggested today that the Queen might establish a country home in Australia.

Mr Harrison, speaking at a returned servicemen's luncheon, said that until shortly before her arrival in Australia, the Queen had to rely on an invitation to make a visit, but now she was Queen of Australia and could come "whenever she liked."

He said: "This, and the shorter travel times that air travel has brought about, might mean that some place of residence may have to be established here so that she can take her place in Australian life."—China Mail Special.

MAINBRACE

Canberra, Apr. 5. The Queen gave the traditional order—"Splice the Mainbrace"—to her Australian fleet today as Royal Australian Navy ships turned over the escort of her yacht near the Cocos Islands.

This will mean an extra ration of rum for all Australian sailors.

The Flag Officer Royal Yachts, Vice-Admiral E.M.C. Abel Smith, signalled from the Gothic to the Australian Naval Board: "The Queen commands me to convey the following message to all Her Majesty's Australian ships and shore establishments—Splice the Mainbrace."

The Australian Navy handed over escort duties today to the cruiser New Foundland, flying the flag of Admiral Sir William Slater, Commander-in-Chief of the East Indies Fleet, and the cruiser Ceylon.

They will take the Gothic into Colombo.—Reuters.

ROYAL ZOO

London, Apr. 5. A Royal menagerie of 70 birds, 36 mammals, snakes and spiders collected by the Queen as gifts from zoos in Australia is now on its way to London.

They will be housed in a special enclosure at the London Zoo known as "The Queen's collection."—China Mail Special.

McCarthy Hearings

Washington, Apr. 5. The Senate Investigating Subcommittee today postponed until tomorrow a showdown on keeping Samuel P. Sears as Counsel for its forthcoming McCarthy-Armey hearings.

Mr Sears, a Boston lawyer who has been questioned by Democrats because of pro-McCarthy statements he made in 1952, met briefly with members of the Subcommittee but refused to talk to reporters about the controversy over his appointment.

"I am not going to say anything today," he said. In reply to other questions, he said he had not yet officially begun his duties as Subcommittee Counsel, and that he had not "the slightest idea" how soon public hearings might be started.

He also denied knowledge of a reported threat on his life. Senator Karl E. Mundt, a Republican, acting as temporary Chairman of the Subcommittee, announced after a conference with Mr Sears and Senator John L. McClellan, senior Democratic member of the Subcommittee, that a formal meeting on Mr Sears' appointment was put off until tomorrow.—United Press.

Eight men and four corporations went on trial today, charged with attempting to export strategic materials (copper and brass) worth £403,000 sterling to Poland.

Mr Gilbert Beyfus, conducting the case for the Government, said it was remarkable for the "immunity of the transacting" of the materials to Commonwealth countries while actually slipping it through the Iron Curtain.

The individual defendants are Richard Dovereaux of Great Britain and Roydon Fern of Bolzano, Italy, directors of the Wellington Export Co., Ltd., of Wellington, New Zealand.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art. Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

DULLES'S VIEW OF JAPAN

Washington, Apr. 5. The American Secretary of State, Mr John Foster Dulles, said today the completed Japanese defensive build-up "will contribute to the maintenance of peace and security in the Far East."

He testified today in the opening hearings of the House Foreign Affairs Committee on the United States foreign assistance programme for the next year. Details of the programme have not been made public.

"The Government of Japan is now planning to assume a larger share of responsibility for its own defence, which will contribute to the maintenance of peace and security in the Far East," he said.

"The Japanese have been understandably reluctant to assume the economic burden of recreating even a modest security establishment. Also they were shocked by the ghastly consequences of World War II that they have tended to close their eyes to the emergence of a new military threat."

"However, on March 8, 1954, a mutual security agreement was signed between the United States and Japan. It contemplates an expansion of the Japanese defence forces with United States assistance principally in terms of military end items."

"While this will create an item of cost for the United States, it is a cost which will have compensating benefits."—United Press.

He Insulted M. Plevin

Paris, Apr. 5. A man named Cesar Alain de Monpey was remanded today on charges of uttering injurious words to Defence Minister Rene Plevin at yesterday's riots at the Arc de Triomphe tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Paris.

The riots occurred when M. Plevin and Premier Joseph Laniel went to lay wreaths on the tomb in a ceremony commemorating those killed in Indo-China and Korea.

De Monpey was one of the six people arrested during the riots.—France-Press.

How Stripped Can A Strip Tease Be?

Singapore, Apr. 5.

Entertainment producers here, scraping the bottom of the barrel to give money-conscious patrons their money's worth, are braving Police action to produce strip tease or something very near to it.

Because of the slump in tin and rubber prices, Malayan entertainment seekers want more value for their money and night cases and cabaret owners realise that they must produce something more appealing and new or be run out of business.

A survey by a local newspaper showed that management are trying to out-do one another in new stunts to bolster their dwindling trade.

Their task is made more difficult with the Police drawing a line to which strip tease performers can shed their clothes.

If they cross the boundary the Police step in and close the shows.

Strip teasing not being in their line most of the Chinese cafe singers are doing it against their will.

"Pure sex," one confessed.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1,500 a month, most of them are content to earn their regular M$400 to M$800 as singers.

The girls are under contract to make a circuit up and down the main Federation towns and Singapore. They live in communal houses and share their food.—United Press.

They all agree that they can never pretend it is art.

Although a strip tease makes between M$1,200 and M$1

4 Reasons why you must have a G.E.C. Refrigerator

1. If your kitchen is small, this is the model for you. It is compact and has a maximum of storage space and economy in operation. This refrigerator is thermostatically controlled, has a freezer and will take even the tallest bottles. The convenient height of 10 inches, the hard, white porcelain enameled table top provides an easy working surface. Exterior, white stove enamel. Interior, finished plastic-covered which is unchippable.
DE 31. T $900
2. The 5 cu ft refrigerator, which has been a family favourite for many years, has extra storage room, extra shelf and a larger freezer. A special plastic meat or fish chiller and a plastic salad and vegetable container. The cabinet interior is in its entirety when the door is opened and is at a suitable height from the ground making sweeping unnecessary.
DE 51 $1400
3. If you entertain on a large scale, this is the model you need with a still larger capacity at a price that you will agree is very reasonable. The 7 cu ft model has 12 sq ft of shelf space and an ample freezer with two separate compartments for ice and frozen foods. There is a glass-covered plastic chiller for meat or fish, and a deep window for vegetables and fruit. The interior lights up when the door is opened and the temperature is thermostatically controlled.
DE 70. $1550
4. Every care has been taken to ensure that this famous G.E.C. Refrigerator incorporates every refinement and refrigeration aid that could be desired. An extra large freezer and frozen food locker, plastic chiller, two plastic salad and vegetable containers, plenty of room for even the largest "cans", a "colourline" safety device on the front of the shelves and an extra upper shelf area.
DE 71. $1700

G.E.C. 4 QUALITY REFRIGERATORS
THE GENERAL ELECTRIC CO. LTD.
Queen's Highway, Tel. 5131

THE SECOND TUBERCULOSIS EXHIBITION will be held at the GRANTHAM TRAINING COLLEGE KOWLOON

from 3rd to 14th April from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily

SEE FOR YOURSELF AND LEARN

Cold
Even the slightest cold is to be feared. Do not let it spread! Defeat it from the start by taking 1 or 2 'CAFASPIN'.

'CAFASPIN' BAYER

PHOTOGRAPHS

by our Staff Photographers

- D.B.S. 'Old Boys' Dinner.
- Music Festival at D.G.S.
- Governor's Cup Soccer Final.
- Kowloon Junior School Sports.
- Shanghai Volunteers Corps Dinner.
- Oxford and Cambridge Annual Dinner.
- Chinese Training Unit Passing-Out Parade.
- D.G.S. Old Girls Association Union Dinner.
- Mounting of Guards at Government House.
- Chinese Manufacturers Union Dinner.
- Training College Annual Sports.
- Foil and Sabre Fencing Finals.
- St. Teresa's Church Bazaar.
- Memorial Cup Final Soccer.
- C.M.A. Dinner.

Available at SOUTH CHINA MORNING POST, LTD.
Wyndham Street.

Concluding the ADVENTURE of the ABBAS RUBY

WHAT HAS HAPPENED SO FAR

While Sir John Davenport, the celebrated horticulturist, and his guests are in his conservatory, investigating the theft of his prize camellias, the Abbas ruby disappears from the library. Andrew Joliffe, the butler, is arrested. He has been previously convicted as a jewel thief and the empty case of the ruby is found under his mattress. After interviewing Sir John and Lady Davenport, Sherlock Holmes finds the dead camellias covered with snow outside a passage window. He and Watson go on to see Lady Davenport's brother, Captain Masterman, who helped Joliffe get the job, and who said to Sir John after the theft: "I blame myself for not telling you his past history." They find him at the Nonpareil Club, an exclusive gambling club, where he is secretary.

"YOU choose strange times to call, gentlemen," he said with a trace of hostility in his voice. "It's cursed late."
"And getting later," my friend observed. "No, Captain Masterman, a chair is unnecessary. I prefer to stand."
"Stand, then. What do you want?"
"The Abbas Ruby," said Sherlock Holmes quietly.

I started and gripped my stick. There was a moment of silence while Masterman stared up at Holmes from the depth of his chair. Then, throwing back his head, he laughed heartily.

"My dear sir, you must really excuse me!" he cried at length, his handsome face all a grin. "But your demand is a little excessive. The Nonpareil Club does not number absconding servants among its members. You must seek elsewhere for Joliffe."

"I have already spoken with Joliffe."
"Ah, I see," he sneered. "Then you represent the interests of the butler?"
"No, I represent the interests of Justice," replied Holmes sternly.

"Tell me how very imposing. Well, Mr Holmes, your demand was so worded that it is lucky for you that I have no witnesses or it would go hard with you in a Court of Law. A cool five thousand guineas' worth of slander, I should say. You'll find the door behind you."
HOLMES strode across to the fireplace and, drawing his watch from his pocket, compared it with the clock on the mantelpiece.

"It is now five minutes after midnight," he remarked. "You have until nine o'clock in the morning to return the jewel to me at Baker Street."
Masterman bounded from his chair.
"Now look here, damn you!" he snarled.

"It won't do, Captain Masterman, really it won't do. However, that you may realise that I am not bluffing, I will run over a few points for your edification. You know Joliffe's past record, and you got him the post with Sir John as a possible sinecure for the future. "Prove it, you cursed busy-body!"

"Later you needed money," continued Holmes imperturbably, "a great deal of money to judge from the value of the Abbas Ruby. I have no doubt that an examination of your card losses would give us the figure. Thereupon you contrived, I regret to add, with your sister's help a scheme that was cunning in its conception as it was merciless in its execution. "From Lady Davenport you obtained precise details of the jewel-case containing the stone, and you caused a duplicate of this case to be constructed. The difficulty was to know when Sir John would withdraw the ruby from the safe, which he did but rarely. The coming dinner party at which you were to be one of the guests suggested a very simple solution.

"Relying on the wholehearted support of the ladies, you would ask your brother-in-law to bring down the jewel. But how to ensure that he and the others would leave the room while the jewel was there? I fear that, here, we come upon the subtle traces of the feminine mind. "There could be no surer way than to play upon Sir John's pride in his famous red camellias. It worked out exactly as you foresaw."

★ ★ ★

"WHEN Joliffe returned with the news that the bush had been stripped, Sir John instantly thrust the jewel case into the nearest receptacle and, followed by his guests rushed to the conservatory. You slipped back, pocketed the case and, on the robbery being discovered, volunteered the perfectly true information that his wretched butler was a convicted jewel thief. However, though cleverly planned and boldly executed, you made two cardinal errors. "The first was that the duplicate jewel case, which had been rather amateurishly smashed and then planted under the mattress of Joliffe's bed, probably some hours in advance, was lined in pale velvet. My lens disclosed that this delicate surface contained not the slightest trace of rubbing such as invariably occurs from the mounting of a pendant jewel. "The second error was fatal. Your sister stated that she had plucked the blossom in her gown immediately prior to dinner and, such being the case, the flowers must have been there at eight o'clock. I asked myself what I should do if I wished to dispose of a dozen blossoms as swiftly as possible. The answer was the nearest window. In this instance, the one in the passage, lashed blue eyes which met and

"But the snow which lay in a deep drift below disclosed no trace whatever. This, I confess, caused me some perplexity until, as Doctor Watson can testify, the obvious solution dawned on me. I rushed back and, proceeding very carefully to remove the snowdrift under the window, I came upon the remains of the missing camellias lying on the frozen earth. "As they were too light to sink through the snow they must have been flung there before the snowfall commenced at six o'clock. Lady Davenport's story was therefore a fabrication and, in the answer to the whole problem."

"During my friend's exposition, I had watched the angry flush on Captain Masterman's face fade into an ugly pallor, and now, as Holmes ceased, he crossed swiftly to a desk in the corner, an ominous glint in his eyes. "I wouldn't," said Holmes pleasantly.

Masterman paused with his hand on a drawer. "What are you going to do?" he rasped.

"Providing the Abbas Ruby is returned to me before nine o'clock, I shall make no public exposure, and doubtless Sir John Davenport will forbear further enquiries at my request. I am protecting his wife's name. Were it otherwise, you would feel the full weight of my hand upon you, Captain Masterman. When you consider your involvement of your sister and your foul plot to ensnare an innocent man I am hard put to it to recall a more black-guardedly villain."

"But the scandal, curse you!" cried Masterman. "What of the scandal in the Nonpareil Club? I'm over my ears in card debts, and if I give up the ruby—" he paused and shot us a swift, furtive glance. "Look here, Holmes, what about a sporting proposition—?"

MY FRIEND turned towards the door. "You have until nine o'clock," he said coldly. "Come, Watson."

The snow had begun to fall again as we waited in St James's Street while the porter whistled for a cab. "My dear fellow, I'm afraid that you must be very tired," Holmes remarked.

"On the contrary, I am always invigorated by your company," I answered. "Well, you have deserved a few hours' rest. Our adventures are over for tonight."

But my friend spoke too soon. A belated hansom carried us to Baker Street, and I was in the act of opening the front door with my latch-key when our attention was arrested by the lamps of a carriage approaching swiftly in the direction of Marylebone Road.

The vehicle, a closed four-wheeler, came to a halt a few yards down the street and, an instant later the muffled figure of a woman hurried towards us. Though her features were hidden under a heavy veil, there was something vaguely familiar in her tall graceful form and the queenly poise of her head as she stood face to face with us on the snow-covered pavement. "I wish to speak with you, Mr Holmes," she cried imperiously.

My friend raised his eyebrows. "Perhaps you would go ahead, Watson, and light the gas," he said quietly.

★ ★ ★
IN the years of my association with the cases of my friend, Sherlock Holmes, I have seen many beautiful women cross our threshold. But I cannot recall one whose beauty surpassed that of the woman who now, with a deep frown, entered our modest sitting-room. She had brown hair, her well-shaped and the gleaming blue eyes of her long-lashed, pale radiance her perfect face was the nearest window. In this instance, the one in the passage, lashed blue eyes which met and Sir John gave a startled cry...

by ADRIAN CONAN DOYLE

the sideboard, and handing one to our visitor. "It is a chill morning, and I can heartily recommend the rarity of this vintage."

With a slight frown of disapproval, Sir John Davenport lifted the glass to his lips. There was a moment of silence, broken by a sudden startled cry. Our visitor, his face as white as the piece of linen which he had put to his mouth, stared wildly from Holmes to the flaming flashing crystal which had fallen from his lips into his handkerchief.

"The Abbas Ruby!" he gasped.

Sherlock Holmes broke into a hearty laugh and clapped his hands together.

"Really, you must forgive me!" he cried. "My friend, Doctor Watson, will tell you that I can never resist these somewhat dramatic touches. It is perhaps the Vernet blood in my veins."

Sir John Davenport gazed thunderstruck at the great jewel, smouldering and winking against its background of white linen.

"Good heavens, I can scarcely credit my own eyes," he said in a shaking voice. "But how on earth did you recover it?"

"Ah, there I must crave your indulgence. Suffice to say that your butler, Joliffe, who was a sordid wronged man, was released this morning and that the jewel is now returned safely to its rightful owner," replied Holmes kindly. "Here is the lock and chain from which I took the liberty of removing the stone in order that I might play my little trick upon you by concealing the ruby in your port wine. I beg that you will press the matter no further."

"IT shall be as you wish, Mr Holmes," said Sir John, earnestly. "Indeed, I have cause to place every confidence in your judgment. But what can I do to express—"

"Well, I am far from a rich man, and I shall leave it to you whether or not I have deserved your five thousand pounds reward."

"Many times over," cried Sir John Davenport, drawing a cheque book from his pocket. "Furthermore, I shall send you a cutting from my red camellias."

Holmes bowed gravely. "I shall place it in the special charge of Watson," he said. "By the way, Sir John, I will be glad if you would make out two separate cheques. One for £2,500 in favour of Sherlock Holmes and the other for a similar amount in favour of Andrew Joliffe. I fear that from this time forward you might find your late butler a trifle nervous in his domestic duties, and this sum of money should be ample to set him up in the cigar business, thus fulfilling the secret ambition of his life. Thank you, my dear sir."

"And now, I think that for once we might really break our morning habits and by partaking of a glass of port modestly celebrate the successful conclusion of the case of the Abbas Ruby."

World Copyright Reserved.

The NEW Exploits of SHERLOCK HOLMES challenged Holmes's stern and uncompromising glance. "I had not expected this late visit, Lady Davenport," he said austere.

"I thought that you were omniscient, Mr Holmes," she replied with a faint mockery ringing in her voice. "But, perhaps you know nothing about women."

"I fail to see—"
"Must I remind you of your boast? The loss of the Abbas Ruby is a disaster, and I could not rest in my anxiety to know whether or not you have fulfilled your promise. Come, sir, admit that you have failed."

"On the contrary I have succeeded."
Our visitor rose from her chair, her eyes glittering. "This is an ill jest, Mr Holmes," she cried haughtily.

★ ★ ★

I HAVE remarked elsewhere that, despite his profound distrust of the opposite sex, it was my friend's nature to be chivalrous to women. But now, for the first time, as he faced Lady Davenport, he saw her harden ominously in the presence of a woman.

"The hour is a trifle late for tiresome pretences, Madam," said he. "I have visited the Nonpareil Club and taken some pains to explain to your brother both the manner in which he acquired the Abbas Ruby and the part which you—"

"My God!"
"—which you, I say, played in the matter. I beg that you will spare me my delusion that you played that part unwillingly."

For an instant the beautiful, imperious creature faced Holmes in the circle of lamplight, then, with a low moaning cry, she fell on her knees, her hands clutching at his coat. Holmes stooped and raised her swiftly. "Kneel to your husband, Lady Davenport, and not to me," he said quietly. "Indeed, you have much to answer for."

"I swear to you—"
"Hush, I know all. Not a word shall pass my lips."

"You mean that you will not tell him?" she gasped.

"I see nothing to be gained thereby. Joliffe will be released in the morning, of course, and the affair of the Abbas Ruby brought to a close."

"God reward you for your mercy," she whispered brokenly. "I will do my best to make amends. But my unfortunate brother—his losses at cards—"

"AH YES, Captain Masterman. I do not think, Lady Davenport, that you have cause to worry too deeply over that gentleman's bankruptcy and the resultant scandal in the Nonpareil Club may have the result of starting him upon a more honourable path than that which he has pursued up to now. Indeed, once the scandal has become a thing of the past, Sir John might be persuaded to arrange a commission for him in some overseas military service. From what I have seen of that young man's enterprise and address, I have no doubt that he would do very well on the Northwest frontier of India."

Evidently I was more fatigued than I had supposed by the events of the night, and I did not awake until nearly ten o'clock. When I entered our sitting-room I found that Sherlock Holmes had already finished his breakfast and was lounging in front of the fire in his old red dressing-gown, his feet stretched out to the blaze, and the air rammed with the smoke of his after-breakfast pipe, composed of the previous day's dottle. I rang for Mrs

Hudson and ordered a pot of coffee and some rashers and eggs.

"I'm glad that you're in time, Watson," he said, shooting an amused glance at me from beneath his drooping lids. "Mrs Hudson's capability to produce breakfast at any hour is not least among her virtues."

"Quite so. But I was not referring to your breakfast. I am expecting Sir John Davenport."

"In that case, Holmes, as it is a delicate affair it would be better perhaps that I leave you alone."

HOLMES waved me back to my seat. "My dear fellow, I shall be glad of your presence. And here, I think, is our visitor a few minutes before his time."

There came a knock on the door and the tall stooping figure of the well-known horticulturist entered the room.

"You have news for me, Mr Holmes!" he cried impetuously. "Speak out, sir, speak out! I am all attention."

"Yes, I have news for you," Holmes replied with a slight smile. "Sir John darted forward. "Then the camellias—" he began.

"Well, well. Perhaps we would be wise to forget the red camellias. I noticed a goodly crop of buds on the bush."

"I thank God that is true," said our visitor devoutly, "and I am glad to perceive, Mr Holmes, that you place a higher value on the assiduous routines of Nature than on the intrinsic treasure of man's handiwork. Nevertheless, there still remains the dreadful loss of the Abbas Ruby. Have you any hope of recovering the jewel?"

"There is every hope. But, before we discuss the matter any further, I beg that you will join me in a glass of port."

Sir John raised his eyebrows. "At this hour, Mr Holmes?" he exclaimed. "Really, sir, I hardly think—"

"Come now," smiled Sherlock Holmes, filling three glasses at

The German For Blackmail

Bad Godesberg.

I WONDER whether our Mr Eden and Washington's Mr Dulles would preserve their blithe confidence in the usefulness of German rearmament if they could see a memorandum which I have in front of me now.

It is a memorandum on Germany's post-Berlin foreign policy prepared by a former S.S. captain and ex-Ribbentrop diplomat, Dr G. A. Sonnenhol. The doctor is today the right-hand man of Vice-Chancellor Blucher.

This document has been the basis of a serious discussion of Germany's foreign policy by the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Free Democratic Party. "This party is financed by the Rhine and Saar industrialists, numbers many ex-staff officers among its deputies."

Reminiscent

MAIN point of the memorandum is that the cold war between East and West must be kept going by the Germans so that they can play off one lot against the other, reuniting Germany, and raising the prestige of the Fatherland. It demands the formation of a big German Army "capable of fully exploiting German manpower reserves." "The thinking I and revoltingly reminiscent of that in Hitler's now famous address to the gauleiters at Poznan in August 1944.

SEFTON DELMER today reveals an astonishing and sinister document

On that occasion Himmler held out the possibility of an end to Germany's troubles by a truce with the Allies.

The German, he said, would play the Russians off against the West and then intervene triumphantly in the inevitable war, with a German people's army retained, re-equipped, and S.S.-like.

Take a glance at these extracts and you will get the idea.

Revise...

AFTER arguing that the tension between the victors of 1945 has already been exploited so successfully that Germany is strong enough to abandon her policy of absolute reliance on the West and blind obedience to its orders, Dr Sonnenhol says:

"Our war potential has now become so great once more that such a policy (of subservience) is no longer permissible. Germany's war potential is considerable in comparison with the two opposing Powers, would become decisive if added to one side or the other."

"THE Government must declare immediately its refusal to tolerate any further delay in the formation of German defence forces."

Germany's security must be assured either by the creation of a national German Army, failing a European one, or as an interim measure, by an increase in the members and equipment of the West German police to three times the strength of the police force in the Soviet zone. (This would give West Germany 30 divisions.)

Next, the Bonn treaty must be revised so as to remove the last restriction imposed on German sovereignty. In particular, all control of German arms production by the security board must be removed.

The restraints forbidding German industry to form trusts and cartels must be abolished. The Western Powers must return to Germany their foreign assets which were confiscated abroad. They must contribute also some financial assistance to help the West Germans relieve the distress in the German Soviet zone.

German trade and industry must be relieved by a special exemption from the restraints imposed on Western nations by the embargo on trade with Eastern bloc countries. The memorandum formulates a number of immediate requirements for the Government.

with China and the Soviet world.

What is the argument with which all these demands are to be pressed on us? Quite simply: Blackmail.

"We must use the thesis in our discussions with the Western Powers," says Dr Sonnenhol, "that Germany and the Soviet zone in particular are today suffering as martyrs for the Western peoples."

Germany renounces the kind of reunification which the Russians for the sake of the other Western countries.

"But Germany cannot be treated as a former enemy if one does not want to run the risk of the German potential one day being placed at the disposal of the Russians."

And just to tam that point home, the memorandum proposes that the West German Government should establish official trade representations in the Soviet Union, China, and the Iron Curtain satellite States. And also, of course, get into direct contact with the Soviet German Government in Berlin.

Stop it

IT is a telling document this, isn't it? And believe me, it is as close as can be to what the foreign policy will be which the Germans are in fact going to follow.

It is not too late yet. We can still veto Adenauer's rearmament Bill. We can stop German rearmament dead. That would shatter these monstrous projects of Bonn's would-be cold-war profiteers. (London Express Service)

• BY THE WAY • by Beachcomber

IT has always been assumed that the "List of Huntingdonshire Cubmen" is not suitable for broadcasting, even if the names were read by different voices, and in a dramatic manner. (GIRL'S VOICE, dreamt.)

At about 11.30 a.m. yesterday, Wells, F. G. But the suggestion that background music (that sea-gulls) might relieve the monotony has been made. Soft music, I presume, rising to a climax with the reading of the names. The actual doing of something in itself, can be an immense help, as I know from experience, provided one has a realistic notion of the meaning of doing things. In my opinion, a form of action, and that in why the action is more likely to do things than one who is, as it were, inactive. And what one is doing depends, to a large extent, on the form one's actions take.

TOMORROW: Adele Bunch ("Group" of the Wiltshire Weekly) will reply to a hard-hitting article.

* * *

If you have freckles on the soles of your feet let Armadillo Quagga help you. The Quagga says to freckle-free soles is based on a common-sense treatment—a straddle position, composed of noddle and ferrugine, which, when rubbed in with a pad soaked in nitro, obliterates freckles on the soles of feet. I used to be ashamed to show the soles of my feet, but now I am so proud of them that I go to parties barefooted.

* * *

What is it?

A SINGLE gigantic footprint in a quarry near Pershore was found to measure 40 feet in length and 27 in width. Are there one-legged Abominable Snowmen? The finding of a second similar footprint outside Worcester suggests that this happy fellow must have a prodigiously long stride. An analysis of the footprint showed that the stranger had nine toes on one foot, and three on the other, that his foot was concave, and that if he wore a hat it must have weighed several tons.

* * *

What is it?

A SINGLE gigantic footprint in a quarry near Pershore was found to measure 40 feet in length and 27 in width. Are there one-legged Abominable Snowmen? The finding of a second similar footprint outside Worcester suggests that this happy fellow must have a prodigiously long stride. An analysis of the footprint showed that the stranger had nine toes on one foot, and three on the other, that his foot was concave, and that if he wore a hat it must have weighed several tons.

* * *

What is it?

A SINGLE gigantic footprint in a quarry near Pershore was found to measure 40 feet in length and 27 in width. Are there one-legged Abominable Snowmen? The finding of a second similar footprint outside Worcester suggests that this happy fellow must have a prodigiously long stride. An analysis of the footprint showed that the stranger had nine toes on one foot, and three on the other, that his foot was concave, and that if he wore a hat it must have weighed several tons.

* * *

What is it?

A SINGLE gigantic footprint in a quarry near Pershore was found to measure 40 feet in length and 27 in width. Are there one-legged Abominable Snowmen? The finding of a second similar footprint outside Worcester suggests that this happy fellow must have a prodigiously long stride. An analysis of the footprint showed that the stranger had nine toes on one foot, and three on the other, that his foot was concave, and that if he wore a hat it must have weighed several tons.

* * *

What is it?

A SINGLE gigantic footprint in a quarry near Pershore was found to measure 40 feet in length and 27 in width. Are there one-legged Abominable Snowmen? The finding of a second similar footprint outside Worcester suggests that this happy fellow must have a prodigiously long stride. An analysis of the footprint showed that the stranger had nine toes on one foot, and three on the other, that his foot was concave, and that if he wore a hat it must have weighed several tons.

* * *

What is it?

A SINGLE gigantic footprint in a quarry near Pershore was found to measure 40 feet in length and 27 in width. Are there one-legged Abominable Snowmen? The finding of a second similar footprint outside Worcester suggests that this happy fellow must have a prodigiously long stride. An analysis of the footprint showed that the stranger had nine toes on one foot, and three on the other, that his foot was concave, and that if he wore a hat it must have weighed several tons.

* * *

What is it?

A SINGLE gigantic footprint in a quarry near Pershore was found to measure 40 feet in length and 27 in width. Are there one-legged Abominable Snowmen? The finding of a second similar footprint outside Worcester suggests that this happy fellow must have a prodigiously long stride. An analysis of the footprint showed that the stranger had nine toes on one foot, and three on the other, that his foot was concave, and that if he wore a hat it must have weighed several tons.

* * *

What is it?

A SINGLE gigantic footprint in a quarry near Pershore was found to measure 40 feet in length and 27 in width. Are there one-legged Abominable Snowmen? The finding of a second similar footprint outside Worcester suggests that this happy fellow must have a prodigiously long stride. An analysis of the footprint showed that the stranger had nine toes on one foot, and three on the other, that his foot was concave, and that if he wore a hat it must have weighed several tons.

* * *

What is it?

A SINGLE gigantic footprint in a quarry near Pershore was found to measure 40 feet in length and 27 in width. Are there one-legged Abominable Snowmen? The finding of a second similar footprint outside Worcester suggests that this happy fellow must have a prodigiously long stride. An analysis of the footprint showed that the stranger had nine toes on one foot, and three on the other, that his foot was concave, and that if he wore a hat it must have weighed several tons.

* * *

What is it?

A SINGLE gigantic footprint in a quarry near Pershore was found to measure 40 feet in length and 27 in width. Are there one-legged Abominable Snowmen? The finding of a second similar footprint outside Worcester suggests that this happy fellow must have a prodigiously long stride. An analysis of the footprint showed that the stranger had nine toes on one foot, and three on the other, that his foot was concave, and that if he wore a hat it must have weighed several tons.

* * *

What is it?

A SINGLE gigantic footprint in a quarry near Pershore was found to measure 40 feet in length and 27 in width. Are there one-legged Abominable Snowmen? The finding of a second similar footprint outside Worcester suggests that this happy fellow must have a prodigiously long stride. An analysis of the footprint showed that the stranger had nine toes on one foot, and three on the other, that his foot was concave, and that if he wore a hat it must have weighed several tons.

* * *

What is it?

A SINGLE gigantic footprint in a quarry near Pershore was found to measure 40 feet in length and 27 in width. Are there one-legged Abominable Snowmen? The finding of a second similar footprint outside Worcester suggests that this happy fellow must have a prodigiously long stride. An analysis of the footprint showed that the stranger had nine toes on one foot, and three on the other, that his foot was concave, and that if he wore a hat it must have weighed several tons.

* * *

What is it?

A SINGLE gigantic footprint in a quarry near Pershore was found to measure 40 feet in length and 27 in width. Are there one-legged Abominable Snowmen? The finding of a second similar footprint outside Worcester suggests that this happy fellow must have a prodigiously long stride. An analysis of the footprint showed that the stranger had nine toes on one foot, and three on the other, that his foot was concave, and that if he wore a hat it must have weighed several tons.

* * *

What is it?

A SINGLE gigantic footprint in a quarry near Pershore was found to measure 40 feet in length and 27 in width. Are there one-legged Abominable Snowmen? The finding of a second similar footprint outside Worcester suggests that this happy fellow must have a prodigiously long stride. An analysis of the footprint showed that the stranger had nine toes on one foot, and three on the other, that his foot was concave, and that if he wore a hat it must have weighed several tons.

* * *

What is it?

A SINGLE gigantic footprint in a quarry near Pershore was found to measure 40 feet in length and 27 in width. Are there one-legged Abominable Snowmen? The finding of a second similar footprint outside Worcester suggests that this happy fellow must have a prodigiously long stride. An analysis of the footprint showed that the stranger had nine toes on one foot, and three on the other, that his foot was concave, and that if he wore a hat it must have weighed several tons.

* * *

What is it?

A SINGLE gigantic footprint in a quarry near Pershore was found to measure 40 feet in length and 27 in width. Are there one-legged Abominable Snowmen? The finding of a second similar footprint outside Worcester suggests that this happy fellow must have a prodigiously long stride. An analysis of the footprint showed that the stranger had nine toes on one foot, and three on the other, that his foot was concave, and that if he wore a hat it must have weighed several tons.

* * *

What is it?

A SINGLE gigantic footprint in a quarry near Pershore was found to measure 40 feet in length and 27 in width. Are there one-legged Abominable Snowmen? The finding of a second similar footprint outside Worcester suggests that this happy fellow must have a prodigiously long stride. An analysis of the footprint showed that the stranger had nine toes on one foot, and three on the other, that his foot was concave, and that if he wore a hat it must have weighed several tons.

* * *

What is it?

A SINGLE gigantic footprint in a quarry near Pershore was found to measure 40 feet in length and 27 in width. Are there one-legged Abominable Snowmen? The finding of a second similar footprint outside Worcester suggests that this happy fellow must have a prodigiously long stride. An analysis of the footprint showed that the stranger had nine toes on one foot, and three on the other, that his foot was concave, and that if he wore a hat it must have weighed several tons.

* * *

What is it?

A SINGLE gigantic footprint in a quarry near Pershore was found to measure 40 feet in length and 27 in width. Are there one-legged Abominable Snowmen? The finding of a second similar footprint outside Worcester suggests that this happy fellow must have a prodigiously long stride. An analysis of the footprint showed that the stranger had nine toes on one foot, and three on the other, that his foot was concave, and that if he wore a hat it must have weighed several tons.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

A Good Principle—
Count Your Tricks

NORTH		1
♠ Q
♥ J 10 8 4
♦ A Q 8 5
♣ K 2
WEST	EAST (D)
♠ K 10 8 5	♠ J 7 4
♥ A	♥ 6 5 2
♦ 10 3 2	♦ K 4
♣ A J 10 8	♣ 9 7 5 4 3
SOUTH
♠ A 8 3 2
♥ K Q 8 7 3
♦ J 7 0
♣ 0
Both sides vul.
East	South	West North
Pass	Pass	1♠ Double
Pass	3♥	Pass 4♥
Pass	Pass	Pass
Opening lead—♦ 2

By OSWALD JACOBY

TODAY'S hand illustrates one important fact in playing bridge: count your tricks. Count the number of tricks that you can reasonably expect to win, and compare that number with the tricks that you need.

Most players follow this principle when they are declarer, but they seem to lose track of it on defence. West's good habit of sticking to the principle came to his rescue in today's hand, for it was the simple act of counting that steered him to the correct defence.

West opened the defence of diamonds, largely because all the other opening leads looked pretty dangerous. East played the four of diamonds, and South dropped the seven. Declarer then led the jack of hearts from dummy and let it ride to West's ace.

It seemed to West, on first thought, that he had gotten off to a bad start. His partner had been able to play only the lowest four of diamonds, the lowest possible card, on the first trick. He was on the point of shifting to spades when he thought of counting.

He had already taken the ace of hearts and could expect to get the ace of clubs later on. Two more defensive tricks were needed to defeat the contract. Where were two more tricks going to come from?

It was a cinch that South had a good heart suit and at least one high card on the side. Hence it was foolish to expect East to provide more than one defensive trick in the form of a high card. But two defensive tricks were still needed, so West had to hope for a ruffing trick.

West obviously couldn't ruff anything himself, and he couldn't expect his partner to ruff anything but diamonds. In short, the simple act of counting told West that the only hope was to play his partner for one high card and shortness in diamonds. After this careful thought, West led the three of diamonds. East won with the king and returned a club to West's ace. (West would have led a high diamond rather than a low one if his ace had been in the high suit, spades, rather than in the low suit, clubs.) And West then led his third diamond for East to ruff.

Q—The bidding has been: North East South West
1 Heart Pass 2 Diamonds Pass
2 Hearts Pass ?
You, South, hold: Spades K-Q-6-3, Hearts 8-5, Diamonds A-K-J-9-2, Clubs 6-4. What do you do?

A—Bid two spades. This "reverse" bid by the responding hand is forcing for one round. If your partner cannot bid no-trump or raise the spades, however, you will stop short of game.

TOADY'S QUESTION
The bidding is the same as in the question just answered. You South, hold: Spades K-Q-6-3, Hearts 8-5, Diamonds A-K-J-9-2, Club 4. What do you do?

Answer Tomorrow

DUMB-BELLS
HOW MANY EGGS DID YOU COOK THEM?

SOLUTION TO CHECK YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

TERENCE S. FISH
Re-arrange the letters to spell his occupation.
(Solution on Page 10)

WOMANSENSE

HAIR SHOULD be arranged to suit the individual, not to ape the latest craze. This simple set is an example of good styling.

A NEAT HAIRDO IS FLATTERING

SOME women have a gift for making the most of their hair. They are able to shampoo perfectly. They arrange it in pin curls and when it is dry are able to arrange it in a smart and becoming manner. Other women seem always to be at odds with their hair. They get a chole hairdo at the beauty parlor. Next morning it is a cornucopia of tangles and they don't know what to do with it.

When having professional attentions these women should be observing. Wave lines should be combed the way they were set, pushed forward slightly to accent the pattern. If the ends have been curled, a small, narrow brush can be used to pass them over the fingers. By doing that at bedtime and slipping on a wave cap, the set will survive in fine fettle from one shampoo to the next.

While hairdos are simpler than they have been in a long time, wave effects taking the place of rolls and bangs, one can always find a smart and becoming arrangement. Only the young and beautiful can get away with severe designs. The average woman who has slipped past her thirtieth birthday will find a soft effect flattering. No woman has a more tragic appearance than the one whose youthful loveliness has faded and who effects a style suitable for teen-age lassies. Yet it is being done all the time.

Too youthful coiffures will call attention to tiny lines in her face, emphasise and accent the cruel evidence of the birthdays. It is this woman who may be flaunting the Italian shoeshine boy cut (a daughter of the old-time wind-blower). It is apt to be extremely unflattering.

A beautiful, flattering hairdo makes a woman. Sometimes it is the first thing a man notices when he meets a new girl. If her mop is scrambled and untidy he assumes that she is not as fastidious as she should be. Any hairdo can be neat and neatness is a requirement of the first order.

—Helen Follett

Get Off The Beaten Track To Discover A Part-time Job

By ANNE HEYWOOD

RECENTLY, there have been some interesting additions to my collection of part-time jobs which women have worked out for themselves.

A reader tells me of a woman doctor who married and had three children. When these children entered school, she wanted very much to get back to work, partly because she loved medicine and partly to help the family budget, which her husband's salary didn't quite cover.

work with paint and second-hand furniture. But her designs, and her special touches, are so appealing that everybody loves her work, and even a lot of people who could do it themselves, pay her because they get such an unusual and enchanting nursery.

Part-time work is hard to find, if you look only on the beaten path. But if you open your mind to all kinds of unusual ideas, and open your eyes to the needs of the people around you—and if you really like to work and need the money—you can uncover a part-time job that is perfect for you.

WANTED VACATIONS

But medicine is in most cases a full-time job, and she didn't want to work during summers, Christmas, and all the times when her children were on vacation.

She got a job as a school physician, and her own vacations and her children's vacations coincide exactly! Also, she has regular hours, and is always home for dinner.

Another reader tells me of a wonderful part-time job which her 78-year-old aunt has uncovered.

She loves cats, and makes her pin money boarding them in her home over weekends, when families in the neighbourhood want to go away. "She's a new woman," my correspondent says, "and not a day over fifty."

NURSERY DECORATOR

And one girl told me of a young mother with children in school, who specialises in decorating nurseries.

For a flat sum, she will fix up a nursery with all the furniture and equipment, even including bottle-warmers. For people who are not rich, she gets to Many elderly people are said to be going through a second childhood at this time. Actually, there are changes taking place in their personality and thinking due to the fact that their arteries are becoming narrowed and not supplying adequate amounts of blood to the brain.

SECOND CHILDHOOD

The first of these changes to take place is loss of memory. Many of these older persons may lose the power to retain memories within their brains. They can recall old happenings, but new incidents are forgotten almost as soon as they take place. It is very hard for a person with hardening of the arteries of the brain to remember when his last meal was or where he ate it.

Many old persons avoid this loss of memory by living on schedule. For instance, they take care of certain tasks on Hardening of the arteries of the brain can cause other troubles besides memory loss. Elderly persons may lose their inhibitions and do things of which they normally would be ashamed. They may suffer great changes of mood. Brain damage due to the hardening of the arteries may also cause tingling throughout the body and tremors of the muscles.

Medical science is now seeking a way to keep the arteries of these older people open and unaffected by hardening, to avoid the stigma of second childhood for them.

Students At No-rules Hostel Get Along Fine

WILLIAM Temple House, in Earl's Court, is the latest of London's hostels for overseas students. It was recently formally declared open by the Archbishop of Canterbury—though it has been running for two years.

Thirty-six students, from 13 countries live there. How do they get along together? Fine—according to the warden, Mr Stanley Tristram Dunstan.

The hostel is sponsored by the Overseas Council of the Church Assembly. Said the Rev. W. Fenton Morley, education secretary of the council: "About one-fifth of the colonial students here come on scholarships provided by their governments, the rest come 'under their own steam'."

"As a rule, either their family or I am thinking of West Africa, which provides a great many students. These help provide the money to pay for their education, and their stay here."

Among the 36 students at the hostel there are—as a matter of policy—a proportion of English men and girls from the provinces.

All pay from £3 5s. to £3 15s. a week for bed, breakfast and dinner daily and full board at week-ends.

Non-Christians from overseas are accepted, for many such—Buddhists, Moslems and others—have received their education in Anglican schools and are recommended by their teachers.

"When students arrive," says the warden, "I have a ten-minute talk with them, and tell them they will find no rules made 'up on the walls'—that would make the place look too like a boarding house. I tell them the way the house is run is based on mutual confidence. We're rather proud of there being no rules."

Most of the students enjoy living with people of other races. Said a girl from Lagos: "Here, with students from all over the world, you feel all people are children in one big family."

—The Times

BOYS' AND GIRLS' MAGAZINE

General Tin Was a Snow Man
—It All Began the Day of the Grizzard—

By MAX TRELL

"DID I ever tell you the story of how I once became a snowman?" said General Tin to the Tin Soldier.

Knarf and Hanid, the shadow-children with the turned-about names, to whom General Tin was speaking, said they had never heard the story of how General Tin had once become a snowman. They begged him to tell them the story.

Heavy Snowfall
"Well," said General Tin, "it happened quite a while ago. I was living in a very nice house with some very pleasant children. Then one day it began to snow. No one had ever seen a snowfall like that one. Each snowflake was as big as a saucer and they came falling down so fast and so thick that you couldn't see anything but snow, no matter how hard you looked."

"It must have been a blizzard," said Hanid. "It was much worse than a blizzard," replied General Tin. "It was a Great Blizzard or, as I called it, a grizzard."

"That's a good name," said Knarf. "I hope you didn't go out in it," said Hanid. "That's the 'trouble,'" said General Tin. "I did! I remember looking out at myself. 'General Tin, old bean! You're not afraid of a little snow, are you? Snow can't hurt you! Those snowflakes are as soft as feathers.'"

"So I put on a heavy coat," General Tin went on, "got into a pair of big shoes, put on an old hat, got myself a cane and lit my cornucop pipe. Then out I went."

Rupert and the Black Spark—20

A new story
Rupert and the Space Ship

NOT A MOMENT LIKE THIS FOR SIXTEEN YEARS

Thirty jumps, twenty-nine starters, nine staying the course. An unlimited number of thrills—and a magnificent finish—with Royal Tan, ridden by Bryan Marshall, winning the Grand National by a neck from Tudor Line with Irish Lizard third. This was the closest finish to the world's toughest steeplechase since 1938, when Battleship beat Royal Danelli by a head.—Express Photo.

EMPIRE GAMES NOTEBOOK

The Eyes Of The Sporting World Are Focusing On The Four-Minute Mile

With all this talk of the four-minute mile, the eyes of the sporting world are focusing on Vancouver. There, in August, many of the greatest middle-distance runners will gather for the Empire Games.

The "names" will be there in force, John Landy, Roger Bannister, etc. But the show may be stolen by an unknown New Zealand cross-country runner.

He is Murray Halberg, an education student. Twenty years old, and a newcomer to the mile field, Halberg recently returned 4 min. 4 sec., less than three seconds off the world record. And he was handicapped by an unfavourable grass track.

Arthur Lydard, New Zealand's national Marathon Champion, who is coaching Halberg, thinks his young protégé might cause some shocks at Vancouver.

Bannister, is a 24-year-old medical student, completing his internship at the University of London. Self-trained for his spectacular 880-yard and mile runs, Bannister never took part in track events until he entered Oxford at the age of 18.

In 1951 he won the Benjamin Franklin Mile at the Penn Relays held at Philadelphia, USA. Last year he clocked 1958's fastest mile—4.02, equal to Australian John Landy's near-record. Bannister considers himself a "part-time" runner, even though his outstanding ability has put him in the top class of the world's milers.

Landy, is expected to attend the Games as part of a North American tour in which he will probably face the top United States milers.

CANADA'S HOPE

Douglas Kyle is another student who may upset the forecasts. Kyle, 21-year-old undergraduate at the University of British Columbia, is a distance runner and possibly Canada's best prospect for the longer events.

A modest, tenacious youngster, Douglas Kyle established himself in this position by shattering the Canadian six-mile record in 1953 with a time of 31:04—the best time for the distance recorded in Canada or the United States for the year.

What caught the experts' attention, however, was the fact that Kyle made this time in a driving wind and rain. The track was so wet that a crew of sweepers were pressed into service at one point in an attempt to clear the flooded cinders. Observers also noted that he finished the six miles none the worse for wear, indicative of a considerable reserve of lasting power and stamina.

Kyle first started running at high school in Saskatoon, Saskatchewan. While still a schoolboy, he trounced all opponents three times in the annual Saskatoon Open Road Race, and in 1951 he was the Saskatchewan one-mile open titleholder.

Kyle and another promising University of B.C. distance star, Peter Harris, have proved almost unbeatable in recent contests with college runners from the United States Pacific Northwest.

Recognition came to Kyle suddenly. On the same day that he was rated All-Canadian by the Amateur Athletic Union, he lowered the six-mile record by 44.8 seconds.

Canadian track officials look for big things from the former Saskatchewan boy this summer. When living on the prairie, Kyle was able to train only during the summer and had to content himself with ice skating

Palmer's XI To Prepare

In preparation for this week-end's fixture against Macao, G. T. Palmer's XI will be held at Sookumpoo tonight at 6 p.m. The following comprise the XI and should attend:—

Mann (Army), Nery (Regio), Farid Khan (Thunderbolts), Rose (Regio), Pettars (Capt) (Army), Bhagat Singh (Capt) (Army), Smith (YMCA), Smith (Army), Marques (Regio), Steenbergen (Dutch), Reserve: Coffey (HKHC).

A further practice will be held on Friday at the same time and place.

LEAGUE MATCHES
The following are the fixtures for all Divisions of the League:—

Sunday
Mens' First Division: RAF v Argonauts; Kai Tak at 4 p.m. (Impress); Wai Wai v. Pui Hoi.

FUTURE FIXTURES
April 18
Mens' Second Division: New Star v. Sookumpoo.

for training purposes during the winter.

In snow-free Vancouver—site of the 1954 British Empire Games—Kyle has been able to train properly throughout the year.

—(London Express Service)

South China Jumper For Asian Games

A decision to provisionally invite Chu Ming, the South China Athletic Association jumper, to represent the Colony in his event at the Asian Games was reached by the Executive Committee of the Hongkong Amateur Association at its meeting yesterday.

Chu had improved the Colony record to 22 ft 10 1/2 ins in the triangular athletic meeting at Pokfulam on Sunday. This performance is the fifth best in Asia so far this year, and is four inches short of the best—23 ft 4 1/2 ins by Japan's Noriaki Sawano.

The Executive Committee set dates and provisional venues for three more Association-run meetings this year. These will be the Annual Quadrangular Meeting (Army, Combined Royal Air Force and Royal Navy, South China Athletic Association and Combined Clubs) on Sunday, May 2, at Boundary Street; the Combined Services v. Combined Civilian Services on Sunday, May 16, at Kai Tak; and the Annual Colony Pentathlon Championship (Men's and Women's) at Pokfulam on Sunday, May 30.

The following new Colony records made at the Colony Championships at Caroline Hill on March 21 were ratified:

One Mile Walk in 8 mins 5 1/2 secs by H. Macchurt (RAC); Javelin Throw of 137 ft 3 1/2 ins by 2/Lt. Neville R. Hughes (Army & HKAA); Shot Put of 42 ft 9 ins by Chan Wei-chuen (SCAA); 110 Metres Hurdles in 10.0 secs by Capt J. E. Mulvaney (Macaoan AC); Hammer Throw of 130 ft 8 1/2 ins by Sgt. D. Brand (RAF); 4 x 440 yds in 3 mins. 30.9 secs by Army.

The following new Colony records established at Pokfulam during the Triangular Meet between the HKUAC, HKAAAC and SCAA on Sunday were also ratified:—

Long Jump—22 ft 10 1/2 ins by Chu Ming (SCAA); Hop Up and Jump—44 ft 7 1/2 ins by George Thum (HKAAAC); 220 yds in 29.8 secs by Stephen Kevlar (HKAAAC); Women's 220 yds and 200 metres—21.9 secs by Miss Lam Kak-lan (SCAA); 4 x 110 yds Women's Relay—2:14.4 sec by South China team—Yan Chee-may, Yau Wing-shung, Lam Kak-lan, Ng May-yan.

Colony Junior Badminton Championships BORNEO-BORN SHUTTLE BRINGS OFF THE FIRST MAJOR UPSET

By "ARGONAUT"

Craigengower's Borneo-born shuttle, M. A. Ebrahim, brought off the first major upset of the Colony Open Junior Badminton Championships as the tournament went through its third night's programme at Recreo last night.

Striking with deadly accuracy in his placement shots, the Malay boy eliminated third-seeded Joseph Foo of University, a former runner-up in the singles event, by the comfortable margin of 15-0, 15-4.

Foo put up a game fight at the beginning of each set but showed unmistakable signs of having been out of practice. Frequent errors in smashing and lobbing rendered him an easy prey to his speedy, accurate and tricky opponent.

The University player took a 1-0 lead in the opening set, but then began to overplay. Capitalizing on this lapse by his opponent and putting into effect his deadly drop shot, Ebrahim took the lead at 8-1.

Foo returned to the fray with a series of over-the-head cross-court smashes and drops to regain the lead at 4-8. After two more errors by Foo, the Craigengower player moved into full stride and systematically mowed down his opponent with drops, lobs and smashes to force ahead to 11-4.

Foo fought back gamely and succeeded in nothing one more point after four shuttles of services before Ebrahim reeled off another four points in a row for the first set.

Ebrahim took a 4-0 lead in the second set. Foo closed in at 2-8, 3-8 and 4-8, but that was far as he was able to get. After being held scoreless for three services, Ebrahim blitzed through with two spells of four and five points to win the set and match.

Second-seeded Johnny Pomeroy, Jr. gained an easy passage into the quarter-final with a 15-8, 15-8 win over Taikeo's Brian Douglas in what proved to be a mere tune-up match for the seeded player.

The two intra-club Mixed Doubles matches of the evening among the four Craigengower pairs resulted in clear wins for the seeded pairs, P. V. Yap and Fern Dhabber and Jimmy Koo and Mary Wong.

The losers made a brilliant recovery in the second set when they took the lead at 11-9 and 12-10 after having trailed behind by 0-7. Overanxiety in their killing shots at this stage caused a series of simple errors and their eventual defeat at 15-12.

TONIGHT'S GAMER

Highlight of this evening's programme of Championship games at Craigengower will be furnished by the second round singles clash between Craigengower's P. V. Yap and top-seeded Francis Rozario of Recreo.

Though he has not been accorded one of the seeded berths in the singles event, Yap has proved himself to be one of the most consistent singles players among the juniors in this season's League.

Rozario, who has again garnered the Recreo singles title with a narrow three-set victory over J. A. Soares, still has to prove himself capable of producing his best form under his match conditions.

He is the harder hitter of the two players and possesses a lethal weapon in his sharp smashes, but Yap has more inches in singles tactics and will take the court with an even chance of upsetting the Recreo champion.

Another good match this evening will be the Junior Mixed Doubles encounter between Frank Yeh and Betty Yung and S. K. Wong and Chen Yuen-type.

The two schoolgirl players in this match are evenly matched and have been coached into sound mixed doubles play. Wong is a brilliant up-and-coming singles and doubles player but is still comparatively green in mixed doubles play. Yeh has a slight advantage in this respect but a tendency to fall into simple errors may offset this. In any event this should be a close and exciting match.

THE RESULTS

Mens' Singles—J. B. Pomeroy beat B. Douglas 15-8, 15-8; M. A. Ebrahim beat Joseph Foo 15-0, 15-4.

Mixed Doubles—P. Yap and B. Dhabber beat C. Koo and Yung 15-9, 15-2; J. Koo and Mary Wong beat C. K. Chan and A. Young 15-5, 15-3.

Mens' Doubles—C. Y. San and W. N. Cheung beat K. C. Yung and Hon Yin-chang 15-6, 15-12.

The following are the fixtures for tonight, Thursday and Friday.

TONIGHT AT CCC

Mixed Doubles—B. K. Lai and Miss Lai v. J. B. Pomeroy and G. Sequeira; S. P. Yeh and Betty Yung v. S. K. Wong and Chen Yuen-type, 7.30 p.m.

Mens' Singles—P. Yap v. F. M. Rozario, 8 p.m.

THURSDAY AT TAKEO
Mens' Singles—E. M. Lim v. Koo Wei-dong at 7.30 p.m.; K. C. Yung v. S. P. Yeh at 8.30 p.m.

Mens' Doubles—J. Koo and A. Lam v. B. A. Sequeira and L. Soares at 7.30 p.m.; Frank Yeh and Betty Yung v. J. B. Soares and B. Brown at 8 p.m.; P. V. Yap and M. A. Ebrahim v. J. B. Pomeroy and J. C. Koo at 8 p.m.

FRIDAY AT C.C.C.

Mens' Singles—A. A. De Rosa v. J. B. Pomeroy at 7.30 p.m.; M. A. Ebrahim v. winner of P. Gardner v. A. Sequeira at 8.30 p.m.

Mens' Doubles—B. A. Sequeira and R. D. Nunes v. C. Y. San and W. N. Cheung at 7 p.m.; C. Koo and W. N. Cheung v. P. V. Yap and M. A. Ebrahim at 8 p.m.; winner of Wang Yuen and M. A. Ebrahim v. J. B. Soares and B. Brown at 8 p.m.

OPEN FOUR-BALL
Results of matches played in the 4th round of this competition are as follows:—H. W. E. Heath/W. C. Hung lost to J. B. Mackie/D. B. Baker-Carr 7/6; J. W. Nicholas/R. Davies beat A. M. L. Source/H. R. de Fina 2/1; J. D. Clague/T. F. Waters lost to A. D. Dury/M. E. Douglas 6/5.

OPEN FOURSOMES
The following are results in the second round of the Fantasy Open Foursomes. Capt. Kennedy/Maj. Huyshe beat J. B. Mackie/B. M. Macpherson 4/3; P. A. Larocch/W. Wilcock lost to A. D. Dury/L. H. Robinson 5/8; S. M. Backer/J. G. Byington beat P. L. J. Greenhalgh/S. S. Hall 2/1; L. Goldman/D. S. Reck lost 4/2; Austin Ho/J. F. McConne beat A. E. E. Lindsay 3/2; H. W. E. Heath/J. B. Mackie beat W. D. Leighton/Maj. Elrick 4/2.

BOGEY POOL
L. H. Robinson (78-8=68) won the week-end Bogey Pool on the Old Course with a return of two 10s. N. P. Downie being placed second with two 10s and one 11.

The Bogey competition on the New Course was won by E. A. Tyong with a score of 111 square, runner-up being W. L. T. Cruden with one down.

Large Foreign Entry In American Badminton Championships

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Apr. 6. Foreign players may very well dominate the first United States national badminton tournament in which they have been allowed to participate.

Eddy and Dave Choong, brothers from Malaya regarded by many as today's top competitors, Ooi Teik Hock and Ong Poh Lim, members of Malaya's world champion Thomas Cup team, and Nandu Nataraj, India's rising young singles titlist, today loomed as the players to beat in the first Open Amateur Championships of the American Badminton Association here on April 7-11.

The presence of these stars from countries where badminton is the national sport makes the field the best in the 14 years running of the meet. Some 280 players will compete in the men's and women's singles and doubles, mixed doubles and veterans' doubles.

Observers believe that this tournament at the Niagara Country Club is the Association's bid to make the U.S. Nationals the championship of the world. At present that honour generally is conceded to the All-England Championships.

Americans are expected to dominate the women's competition. Judy Devlin of Baltimore, All-England queen, is the favorite. Her sister, Sue, with whom Judy won the All-England doubles and mixed doubles titles, and Mary Sheela, Canadian Champion from Toronto, are leading contenders. Ethel Marshall of Buffalo, N. Y., will not defend the crown she won the past seven years. The Devlin girls are rated No. 1 in the doubles, —United Press.

MARCIANO AND CHARLES SIGN CONTRACTS

New York, Apr. 6. Champion Rocky Marciano and challenger Ezzard Charles signed formal Commission contracts today for their 15-round world heavyweight title fight at Yankee Stadium on June 17.

It will be Marciano's first bout since retaining his title by stopping Roland LaStarza of New York in the 11th round here last September 24. Charles knocked out Bob Satterfield of Chicago in the second round of his latest appearance on January 13.

Charles, former heavyweight title-holder from Cincinnati, lost the crown to Jersey Joe Walcott in a seventh round knockout in Pittsburgh on July 19, 1951.

Marciano will resume training tomorrow at Gracieuse Airport in upstate New York. Charles' training site has not yet been chosen. —United Press.

THE GAMBOLE

THE GAMBOLE

THE GAMBOLE

THE GAMBOLE

THE GAMBOLE

7 out of 10 Office Workers

Find MIRADO Pencils Smoother

...and so will you!

In certified tests from coast to coast, 7 out of 10 office workers consistently chose Eagle Mirado as smoother than any other pencils they were using! The #2 and Mirado smoother, stronger, and longer wearing, too.

ON SALE AT SOUTH CHINA MORNING POST, LTD. Hong Kong Kowloon

FA CUP SEMI-FINAL

Preston North End beat Sheffield Wednesday by two goals to nil at Manchester in the semi-final of the Football Association Cup. They meet West Bromwich Albion in the final at Wembley.

Picture shows Wednesday's goalkeeper McIntosh clearing from a Docherty free kick. Morrison challenges for Preston, while Curtis (striped shirt) helps out McIntosh.—Express Photo.

PING PONG POWERS FEAR THE JAPANESE

By SAM LEITCH

Eight honourable ping pong players from Japan, average age 20, have wound up their training for the world table tennis Championships opening at Wembley on Tuesday.

Between them they have the backing of a cool 20,000,000 fans. Yes, 20,000,000 follow the sport back home in the land of the Rising Sun. Even His Imperial Highness, Prince Akihito, the emperor's son, packs a wallop in his backhand.

Messieurs Tomita, Kawanishi, Tansu, Oghura, and the Misses Tanaka, Watanabe, Goto, and Guchi are the honourables.

Pakistan Qualifies For Swaythling Cup Tournament

Wembley, Apr. 5. Pakistan advanced to the final groups in the Swaythling Cup play of the World Table Tennis Championships when it beat the Saar and Finland while losing to New Zealand in qualifying play today.

Twelve nations played in three groups of four today in these qualifying matches, with the winner and runner-up in each group to advance to the actual tournament which starts tomorrow.

Pakistan beat the Saar, 5-3, and Finland, 5-4, while New Zealand trimmed Pakistan, 5-1. New Zealand also went to the finals by beating Finland 6-1 and the Saar 5-2.—United Press.

out to humble the rest of the world at Wembley.

The Japanese have an amazing record in world table tennis.

It is so impressive that the table tennis powers, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Austria, France and England, may well wonder what chance they and the other 20-odd competing nations have against the Oriental acts.

TERRIBLY EFFICIENT

In 1952, Japan sent two round-faced girls and three slim, terribly efficient men to Bombay to compete in the World Championships for the first time.

I saw them win four world titles and impress everyone with their speed, furious attack and team spirit.

In victory they bowed their way around the stuffy Brabourne Stadium, registering toothy smiles all round.

In defeat they were so tragically quiet. One night I saw their champion, Narikazu Fujii (they called him "Cannon Ball King of the Orient") led away in tears after losing to a Frenchman.

Their technique will be a repeat of Bombay. Every player is an attacker.

They come as recent winners of both the men's and women's team events in All-Asian Championships.

A warning to the players who have to face the Japanese. When they smile, beware! They are about to try, and smack you off the table.

—(London Express Service)

Happy Event

By HENRY LONGHURST

It was natural that a publisher gifted with the bright idea of producing a series entitled "The Pleasures of Life" should turn, on the subject of golf, to one who in 47 years of writing about it has probably given more pleasure over a longer period than anyone in that or any other game.

A book by Bernard Darwin is always an event in the golfing world, and the one published recently ("Golf," Burke, 21s.) is an event at least as happy as the best of its predecessors. It is a kind of Golden Treasury of writings, ancient and modern, by those who have delighted in golf, the whole interlarded in about equal proportions with vintage Darwin.

It fills me with a pleasurable anticipation and at the same time regret. I shall go instantly, for instance, and renew acquaintance with Sir Walter Simpson, whose "Art of Golf," written in 1892, I scanned only cursorily in less appreciative days.

"Carrying clubs," he wrote, "is one of the most agreeable trades open to the lower orders. In it an amount of drunkenness is tolerated which in any other would land the man in the workhouse. A very low standard of efficiency and very little work will secure a man a decent livelihood. If he is civil, willing to caddy for three or four hours a day and not apt to drink to excess before his work is done, he will earn a fair wage, and yet be able to lie abed till nine in the morning like a lord."

Any man who could write that is a friend of mine.

On the other hand, though, I regret I shall never know two in particular of the characters quoted in this book. A.J. Halfour for instance, who wrote "with a fine sea view and a clear course in front of him the golfer should find no difficulty in dismissing all worries from his mind and regarding golf, even if it be very indifferent, golf, as the true and adequate end of man's existence."

Care may sit behind the horseman, he never presumes to walk with the caddy. Sir Winston describes him as a man of "composed, detached, uplifted mental and moral vision." What a charming person he must have been.

THE OLD DAYS

And John Low, who presented the President's putter, Darwin tells how, in the old days, he took Low on his first visit to Woking, where he later settled, and how, as others hurried from the train to the waiting Carbine Soccer and rugger and what do you get? Why, sagger of course. And what's sagger? According to Northampton sports' enthusiasts it's a twelve-a-side game played under soccer rules but with a rugby ball. There will be a demonstration on May 3 when the Northampton League soccer team meet the town's crack Rugby Union side.

Lord Brabourne of Tara has become the new President of the Professional Golfers' Association. He succeeds the late Lord Lyle of Westbourne. Brigadier-General A. C. Critchley has been elected Vice-President.

Joe Harvey, who led Newcastle United to their Cup Final victories of 1951 and 52, is again on the Wembley trail.

This time it's with the amateurs. Joe has been given full charge of the Crook Town side to play Bishop Auckland in the Amateur Final on April 10.

Harvey is coaching the Crook players after they finish work in the evenings. Newcastle have offered the amateurs full training facilities and have with playing kit, gear and bag and Sussex have as many promising youngsters as ever in their long history.

The absence of captain David Sheppard will be a big batting loss and a big loss for morale, but Hubert Doggart comes in as successor and he is of England class and very popular.

From "Ranji" and Fry to "Duleep" and Tate Sussex has always been one of the most attractive counties, there is no reason to suppose that they will not continue that way, and now they have an enclosure worthy of a champion side.

Members of the Indian Recreation Club are advised that the lawn bowls greens will be officially opened as from today.

All young players now being taken on to be fully equipped staff are to be fully equipped the same as at neighbouring Hampshire CCC.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

There is nothing new under the sun, certainly not in the game of golf. Those who write about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

THE SPORTS ROUND-UP

A Fighting Fund Is Being Established In Aid Of A Tombstone

A fighting fund is being established in Hereford—in aid of a tombstone. But it's no ordinary tombstone. It marks the grave of one of the greatest men ever to enter the prize ring—Tom Spring.

Spring was bare knuckle Champion of England more than 100 years ago. Boxing was then a savage business, more so than today, yet Spring brought to the ring a degree of sportsmanship that has seldom been equalled, and earned the title "the lady's maid boxer."

His grave—at West Norwood Cemetery, London—has recently fallen into disrepair. The fund to renovate it, and to build a memorial, has been launched by Bob Thompson, a 32-year-old businessman and councillor of Hereford, Spring's birthplace.

Uruguay, the holders, are favourites to win the World Soccer Championship at Switzerland in June. European book-makers are quoting odds of 5-2 on them retaining their title. Hungary are 7-2 and England 4-1.

NOW SOGGER

Combine Soccer and rugger and what do you get? Why, sagger of course. And what's sagger? According to Northampton sports' enthusiasts it's a twelve-a-side game played under soccer rules but with a rugby ball. There will be a demonstration on May 3 when the Northampton League soccer team meet the town's crack Rugby Union side.

Lord Brabourne of Tara has become the new President of the Professional Golfers' Association. He succeeds the late Lord Lyle of Westbourne. Brigadier-General A. C. Critchley has been elected Vice-President.

Joe Harvey, who led Newcastle United to their Cup Final victories of 1951 and 52, is again on the Wembley trail.

This time it's with the amateurs. Joe has been given full charge of the Crook Town side to play Bishop Auckland in the Amateur Final on April 10.

Harvey is coaching the Crook players after they finish work in the evenings. Newcastle have offered the amateurs full training facilities and have with playing kit, gear and bag and Sussex have as many promising youngsters as ever in their long history.

The absence of captain David Sheppard will be a big batting loss and a big loss for morale, but Hubert Doggart comes in as successor and he is of England class and very popular.

From "Ranji" and Fry to "Duleep" and Tate Sussex has always been one of the most attractive counties, there is no reason to suppose that they will not continue that way, and now they have an enclosure worthy of a champion side.

Members of the Indian Recreation Club are advised that the lawn bowls greens will be officially opened as from today.

All young players now being taken on to be fully equipped staff are to be fully equipped the same as at neighbouring Hampshire CCC.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

SUSSEX AFTER THE DOUBLE

By ARCHIE QUICK

Spring is the harbinger of the cricket season, and everybody imagines that the County Clubs awake then from a winter's hibernation. Nothing could be further from the truth. Players and secretaries do not creep out of winter quarters, rub their eyes and start getting down to work. They have been at it all the time.

A typical example is the Sussex Club which is this summer celebrating its hundredth year of existence. The drive for new members—the target is 5,000—has been on all the football season during which hundreds of pounds have been raised by weekly sweepstakes.

Most of this is being ploughed back into ground improvements, and the pleasant Hove enclosure is going to be one of the most up-to-date of the Test circuit. It has been entirely redecorated and large grass mounds have been raised for bigger and better accommodation for spectators.

Like all the other County Clubs winter instruction has been going on at indoor nets and at Sussex the brothers James and John Langridge have been in charge. Their aim is the Sussex "double" in 1954—Brighton and Hove Albion FC for promotion to Division Two for the first time in 100 years—so narrowly missed last season through injury to Alan Oakman.

Every week the football sweepstake during the eight winter months brings in an average of £100—over £3,000 a year—and not only has some of this been devoted to improving the Hove ground, but each of the "capped" professionals has been made a grant of £50—the same as at neighbouring Hampshire CCC.

All young players now being taken on to be fully equipped staff are to be fully equipped the same as at neighbouring Hampshire CCC.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

One idea at least was surely modern—one would have betted on its having been American—namely, the numbering of clubs; but here is John Low more than fifty years ago writing about it like to think sometimes that we have become possessed of an original, perhaps even characteristic, theme.

To browse through Bernard Darwin's book is to realise, alas, that it has all been done before and rather better.

What's best in Kowloon?

PRINCE OF PEKING
FAMOUS PEKING FOOD
PRINCESS THEATRE BLDG, KOWLOON 54169

DINNER & DANCING NIGHTLY
FAMOUS CHINESE & EUROPEAN DISHES
IN THE COLONY

Business hours: 11 a.m. to 2 a.m.

Kowloon Restaurant

221D/E, Nathan Rd., Kowloon. Tel: 57171.

CHUN WAH CO.

HIGH CLASS LEATHER WARE MANUFACTURER

Wholesale & Retail — Satisfaction Guaranteed

41D, Peking Road & 40B, Harkow Road, Kowloon.

Tel: 50214.

PIGEON BEAUTY PARLOUR

LADIES Shampoo & Set ... $ 2.50 Permanent Wave ... $ 8.00
Machine Wave ... $10.00 Cold Wave ... $25.00
GENTS Hair Cut ... $1.00
24, Mody Road, Kowloon. Tel: 85007.

Peaceful Surrounding — Satisfactory Service — Moderate Charges

MELBOURNE HOTEL

2-12, Mody Rd., Kowloon. Tel: 59168.

MELBOURNE APARTMENTS

65-67, Kimberley Rd., Kowloon. Tel: 59195.

ZORIC DRY CLEANING

CAN ONLY BE DONE IN A "ZORIC" UNIT. THERE IS BUT ONE IN THE COLONY. IT IS USED AT...

THE STEAM LAUNDRY CO.

Call 58266 For Collection and Deliveries

Defeat By Macao Does Not Make HKFA Less Ambitious

Hongkong will invite either Arsenal, Blackpool, West Bromwich, Preston or Tottenham, in that order of preference, to play three matches here and three in Manila after the Asian Games provided Manila is willing to bear half the expenses, the H.K. Football Association decided yesterday.

The HKFA Interport sub-committee at its meeting yesterday estimated that the travelling expenses of the English professional team would be around £10,000.

Under tentative plans the English team will play one of their Manila matches against a combined Hongkong and Formosa team after the Asian Games.

The Interport sub-committee yesterday also decided to accept the Philippine Amateur Athletic Federation's invitation to send seven senior players to combine with four Hongkong student interporters in two exhibitions, on April 17 and 18, against the Philippines' Asian Games team, and to suggest to the PAAF that a Council member accompany the seven.

Earlier the manager of the Manila Interport team, which played here recently, had asked Captain George to send an Army team to Manila, but that was not possible. Flt-Lt Hides told the meeting yesterday he would have offered to send his RAF team if he had been given sufficient notice.

The meeting also rejected a proposal of the Austrian Wacker team to play three matches here at the beginning of January because it considered the "Austrians" terms too high but decided to ask the Grasshoppers team of Zurich for terms regarding three matches here at the beginning or end of January.

The seven senior players who will go to Manila in mid-April at the PAAF's expense will be drawn from Sing Tao, Kwong Wah and Eastern and will not include any member of the Colony's Asian Games team. It was also decided to offer pre-sale tickets for the soccer series against the Indian team for the matches arranged for April 24, 25 and 27. These tickets will be available to the public.

The following will represent Great Britain in the International Cup against China on Saturday:

Granger (Army), Armstrong (Club), Wells (Army), Toth (R.A.F.), Fraser (Army), Hughes (Police), Lunnon (Army), Reeves (Army), Gordon (Club), Jobling (Navy), McGregor (Navy), Reeves (R.A.F.), McCauley (Navy), Higgins (Army), Gilbey (R.A.F.), Moss (Police), McGregor (Club).

Team manager, Cf Dewar; trainer, Docherty.

Colony Fencing Championships

Following are the results of the Colony Fencing Championships (foll) held at the European YMCA last night.

Pool 1—G. Ozorio, J. Groves, Hodge, S. Leung, Wai-koong, J. Chan, S. Freeman, C. Chang, K. Leung.

Pool 2—Fong, Ho-wai, S. Woo, Chiu-wai, I. C. Tong, J. Marcal, Williams, S. Hung, K. Leung.

Pool 3—Lam Si-lap, S. Yang Kai, Goodall, S. Day, S. F. Fung, S. Nicol.

The following have been promoted to the finals to be held at the European YMCA on April 6—Granger, Hodge, Freeman, Marcal, Williams, Day, F. Fung.

Hungary Fear Austrian Footballers

Austria will reach the final of the World Cup. Who says so? None other than Ferenc Puskas, captain of Hungary's team and one of the world's greatest footballers.

A sign of defeatism in the Hungarian ranks? Not really. Says Puskas: "Like every big competition it's a large question mark. I think the Austrians are OUR most dangerous opponents. But we shall see."

CROSSLEY BROTHERS LTD.
MARINE, STATIONARY & AUXILIARY
MARINE DIESEL ENGINES.
ENGINEERING EQUIPMENT CO. LTD.
H.K. & Shanghai Bank Bldg. Tel. 277889

CHINA MAIL

Page 10 TUESDAY, APRIL 6, 1954.

LARGEST WRITING
MILEAGE
GUARANTEED
SHEAFFER'S
NEW Fineline
"500"
RETRACTABLE BALLPOINT PEN

JOHN CLARKE'S CASEBOOK

Mary Leaves Home

HER home was in the Hebrides, and there she lived, happy enough, one of a large family who made their living by weaving those tweeds that people buy all over the world, wherever clothes are worn.

Then things went wrong for this girl named Mary, from the Islands. She fell into disgrace with her family. They did nothing so drastic or dramatic as to drive her from home, but always, after that trouble, there was reproach in their looks, and voices, even in their silence.

TO A NEW START

THERE were three years ago, and there came a day when Mary could stand the family cold war no longer. She counted her savings, she packed her bag and took the steamer for the Scottish mainland and from there the train to London. "Good riddance, good riddance," she said, as the train seemed to say, all the long night as it streaked south. "A new start, I'm making a new start," Mary continually reminded herself.

She was not overworked by London's grey vastness. She kept her head and carefully nursed what was left of her savings. Before these ran out, she was in a clerical job in the East End.

THE DEBTS PILE UP

THERE were long, lonely evenings then, and often there was homesickness, but gradually Mary grew used to living alone in a town, and the old wounds healed.

Six months ago, she switched her job and became a cashier in a department store. From then, for some reason or other, a new kind of trouble began.

Now, she who had always been so careful, found herself, week after week in debt. She began to steal from the till she minded.

At Bow Street, the other morning, Mary, a slim, ginger-haired woman now pleaded guilty to three charges of embezzling a total of £3 10s. 0d.

MARY'S CONFESSION

"THROUGH she charged sum, the total defalcation, a policeman said to Mr. Bertram Reece, the magistrate, and went on to tell Mary's story, while she fought to control the heavy sobs that shook her.

"Yesterday," said the officer, "when she had paid her debts with the stolen money, she went to the manager and confessed what she had done, because she said it was on her conscience. The firm say she was good in her work."

"How does it come about that you were behaving in this disgraceful way?" Mr. Reece asked Mary.

CONTRITION

SHE tried to answer, but the sobs would not let her. "If you get cashiers being dishonest, anything may happen," said the magistrate. He sent Mary off to see Miss Hamilton, the probation officer, who presently brought her back.

"I think," said Miss Hamilton, then, "she's genuinely contrite, and someone who needs help. I think that her mother is a very strictly religious woman, and that this girl could not face life up there at home, again."

Mary was put on probation. This time, though she had done wrong again, pity, not reproach, surrounded her. Seeing her go you wondered what her family would say, if ever the news should reach them.

LOSING HIS PIMENTATION

(Continued from Page 1)

cases of natives losing their colour in spots, but I have never seen one lose his colour so completely.

The African, aged about 60, works on a farm about 26 miles from Wolmarstad, says he has been losing his colour steadily, "since the war"—which war he did not make clear.

His parents were Africans and his children are typically dark. The only trace of his former colour remaining is on his nose. This too, says the district surgeon, will probably vanish in time.

Asked to comment, a Johannesburg physical anthropologist said that he had never known of a case of this sort—France Press.

HK'S FIRST FLOUR MILL TO BECOME OPERATIVE China Provident Co Leases Out New Building

Presenting his report at the annual general meeting of the China Provident, Loan & Mortgage Co., Ltd., this morning, Major S. M. Churn, the chairman, disclosed that a modern building was now in the course of construction which for a period of years has been leased for use as Hong-kong's first flour mill.

Major Churn said that during the year capital expenditure totalled $2,343,000, bringing the post war total capital expenditure to over six and a half million dollars.

Net profit for the year at $1,478,982 was 18 per cent better than in 1952. Dividends and bonuses on both Old and New shares were recommended in the appropriations.

Addressing the meeting, Major Churn said:

The year under review was a difficult one, but our plans have proceeded smoothly. The results achieved will, we think, be considered as satisfactory by shareholders and although the volume of business available throughout the year was restricted due to the embargo, we feel that your company had its fair share, and has maintained its position in the port.

The net profit for the period was $1,478,982. This is $220,000, or 18%, better than in the previous year.

The new capital raised in the latter part of 1952 has been invested in the replacement of the temporary godowns on the site of the new flour mill, with modern reinforced concrete permanent structures and also our new Godown No. 19, a reinforced concrete building of six floors, one of which is equipped as a modern cold storage plant.

These new premises are all of fire-resisting construction and ventilated so that the air is changed eight times every hour. The total capital expenditure during the year was $2,343,000, bringing the post war total capital expenditure to over $6,500,000.

There is also in course of construction on the site of our old No. 14 Godown, destroyed during the war, a modern building of five floors, which has been leased for a period of years for use as Hong-kong's first flour mill. This building is so designed that it can be converted for storage purposes should the lease fall in.

Your company is now equipped to take care of all types of cargo.

Shareholders will of course realise the new capital raised during 1952 has, as yet, made little contribution to revenue, for the new premises were not completed until towards the end of last year.

Storage revenue was well maintained and expenses per dollar revenue slightly reduced.

VIOLATE REGULATIONS

During the year under review we were almost claim free. Unfortunately, the staff of a godown, who in the first instance made a minor infraction of our regulations, allowed themselves to be coerced into a major deflection by outside sources. These employees, some of whom had been in the Company's employ for over twenty years, were dismissed after they had made restitution from their Provident Funds. Three other were paid claims totalling $1,700.

In order to arrange the financing of the development of our associate North Point Wharves, Ltd.'s western berth, your Directors decided to increase our large holding in that company by offering one of this company's shares for every two of the associate shares. This offer was accepted by the large majority of shareholders we could contact, and as a result we held, at the end of the year, 95.97% of the issued capital. Further shares have since been exchanged. Only holders of 6,100 shares, less than 1%, refused the offer.

As a result of this transaction the essential development is now being carried out, and the, as it now is, subsidiary's loan capital placed on a definite basis, repayable over a long period under the Company's guarantee.

The increase of issued capital due to this exchange was 220,560 shares of $5 each, credited as fully paid up.

PROFIT & LOSS A/C

Turning to the Profit & Loss Account, you will note that Decreased has been reduced by $64,000. This comprises $40,000 being reduction due to Sinking Funds matured in 1952—therefore further appropriations were unnecessary; the balance being cash residual value of Nissen buildings demolished during the year and replaced by permanent buildings.

The credit side of this account has received a satisfactory increase in revenue from our subsidiary companies.

The Appropriation Account has been credited with $359,088, being profit on the sale of two small godowns.

The cost of the exchange of shares above-mentioned has been wholly written off.

You will note that the sum of $258,000 has been transferred from Appropriation Account to Capital Reserve, making this reserve up to the issued capital.

A General Reserve of $2 million has been created by the transfer of that sum from Investment Fluctuation Reserve. This latter reserve now stands at over $1 million, being 25% of the market value of our investments.

Transfers to Reserves for Typhoon Losses and Claims have been provided for as usual.

TWO ACCIDENTS

The higher transfer to Marine Losses Reserve is attributable to making good to the reserve the cost of repairs to six lighters involved in two accidents: one, when a light crane fell from the Dangerous Goods Anchorage and, apart from damage to the lighter, unfortunately five lives were lost; and the other, when five lighters were damaged during a typhoon in the early morning of September 2, last. On this latter occasion five other lighters in the same vicinity foundered, which amply demonstrates the robust construction and seaworthiness of our craft.

You will note that after making the above provisions and providing for dividends, the carry forward to 1954 is over seventeen lakhs.

In the Balance Sheet the reduction under Land is the net book value of two small godowns sold during the year. Buildings Account has increased by the cost of new Godowns Nos. 7, 8 and 19, and Vessels, Machinery &c., by the cost of cargo handling machinery installed in these new premises.

Our holdings in subsidiary companies are shown at market value of over four and a half million dollars, against which there is a reserve of over one million dollars. During the year under review we acquired 438,270 additional North Point Wharves, Ltd. shares and 74,132 Sandakan Light & Power Co. (1922) Ltd. shares.

The book value of our gross assets increased by nearly three million dollars during the year.

AMPLE RESERVES

Reserves and Surplus total nearly twelve million dollars and are very ample.

Staff Superannuation Funds now stand at $321,000. I regret to record the death of our former colleague, Mr. L. Tse-fong, a Director of this company for 22 years, and we extend to his family our deepest sympathy in their bereavement.

As usual, the Company's staff have served us conscientiously and well during the year and I wish to record our appreciation of their loyal service. A tangible token of your appreciation is included in the Appropriations to be voted at this meeting.

During the year there were several changes in your directorate. After the sad decease of Mr. L. Tse-fong, his son, Mr. L. Fook-wo, who has given many times served on the Board, was invited to take his father's place. We also invited Messrs. F. K. Cleary and A. Klusman to join us and are pleased that these three gentlemen were able to accept our invitations and give us the benefit of their counsel and advice.

Mr. R. Johansen is retiring in a few months' time, and I take this opportunity of wishing both him and Mrs. Johansen many long and happy years in retirement.

You will note that Mr. Robert Ho Tung, K.C., comes up for reelection for re-election. Sir Robert is our senior Director, having served on the Board for 27 years since 1929, and his colleagues recommended his shareholders his unanimous reelection.

I beg to propose that the Directors' Report, Accounts and Balance Sheet for the year ended December 31, 1953, as presented, be adopted, and that the balance available be dealt with as recommended by the Directors, namely—to pay a dividend of $1 per share and a bonus of 20 cents per share, both free of tax, on 813,691 "Old" shares, absorbing $970,429; pay a 10% dividend and bonus on 220,560 "New" shares, ranking for dividend from 1.7.53 at 60 cents per share, free of tax, absorbing $132,336; pay the annual bonus to the staff at the discretion of the Directors, absorbing $148,000; and to carry forward to 1954 Account $1,738,077.

Seconding the adoption of the report and accounts, Dr. D. Laing said:

I must congratulate the Board and Management on the particularly difficult year when no Board or Management could have harnessed the tide of trade. As shareholders, we, of course, realise that there is a time lag between the raising of new capital and bringing it into bearing. The increase in profits and assets is gratifying, as is the profitable operation of our subsidiaries, which amply demonstrates the robust construction and seaworthiness of our craft.

I would also commend to your approval the re-election of our senior Director, Sir Robert Ho Tung, K.C., who has served our interests for 27 years. In this connection I would remind you that both Major Churn and Mr. Croucher have been on the Board for 26 years, and that the former has presided at our meetings since 1936.

OTHER BUSINESS

The Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation, Ltd., who were due to retire, and the confirmation of the appointments of Messrs. A. Klusman, F. K. Cleary and Li Fook-wo to the Board was proposed by Mr. T. B. Wilson and seconded by Mr. R. B. Anderson.

Messrs. Peat, Marwick, Mitchell and Company, Chartered Accountants, were re-appointed auditors to the company for the ensuing year at a fee of $6,000 on the proposition of Mr. F. R. Zimmern, seconded by Mr. D. H. Hazell.

The Directors present at the meeting, apart from Sir Robert Ho Tung, who was on sick leave, were: Major S. M. Churn (Chairman), Mr. R. Johansen, A. Klusman, N.V.A. Croucher, Li Fook-wo, F. K. Cleary, R.A. Wickerson (Managing Director), and the Secretary, Mr. A. D. Learmonth.

Radio Hongkong

H.K.T. 6. Time Signal and Programme Summary: 6.55, Melody with the Stars, 6.55, BBC Bandstand, 7.00, News, 7.05, New Zealand, 7.10, Radio City, 7.15, First Hearing, presented by Bernard Ince, (Studio), 7.20, La Demi-Hour, 7.25, Time Signal and World News, 7.30, News Talk (Radio), 7.35, News, 7.40, News, 7.45, News, 7.50, News, 7.55, News, 8.00, News, 8.05, News, 8.10, News, 8.15, News, 8.20, News, 8.25, News, 8.30, News, 8.35, News, 8.40, News, 8.45, News, 8.50, News, 8.55, News, 9.00, News, 9.05, News, 9.10, News, 9.15, News, 9.20, News, 9.25, News, 9.30, News, 9.35, News, 9.40, News, 9.45, News, 9.50, News, 9.55, News, 10.00, News, 10.05, News, 10.10, News, 10.15, News, 10.20, News, 10.25, News, 10.30, News, 10.35, News, 10.40, News, 10.45, News, 10.50, News, 10.55, News, 11.00, News, 11.05, News, 11.10, News, 11.15, News, 11.20, News, 11.25, News, 11.30, News, 11.35, News, 11.40, News, 11.45, News, 11.50, News, 11.55, News, 12.00, News, 12.05, News, 12.10, News, 12.15, News, 12.20, News, 12.25, News, 12.30, News, 12.35, News, 12.40, News, 12.45, News, 12.50, News, 12.55, News, 1.00, News, 1.05, News, 1.10, News, 1.15, News, 1.20, News, 1.25, News, 1.30, News, 1.35, News, 1.40, News, 1.45, News, 1.50, News, 1.55, News, 2.00, News, 2.05, News, 2.10, News, 2.15, News, 2.20, News, 2.25, News, 2.30, News, 2.35, News, 2.40, News, 2.45, News, 2.50, News, 2.55, News, 3.00, News, 3.05, News, 3.10, News, 3.15, News, 3.20, News, 3.25, News, 3.30, News, 3.35, News, 3.40, News, 3.45, News, 3.50, News, 3.55, News, 4.00, News, 4.05, News, 4.10, News, 4.15, News, 4.20, News, 4.25, News, 4.30, News, 4.35, News, 4.40, News, 4.45, News, 4.50, News, 4.55, News, 5.00, News, 5.05, News, 5.10, News, 5.15, News, 5.20, News, 5.25, News, 5.30, News, 5.35, News, 5.40, News, 5.45, News, 5.50, News, 5.55, News, 6.00, News, 6.05, News, 6.10, News, 6.15, News, 6.20, News, 6.25, News, 6.30, News, 6.35, News, 6.40, News, 6.45, News, 6.50, News, 6.55, News, 7.00, News, 7.05, News, 7.10, News, 7.15, News, 7.20, News, 7.25, News, 7.30, News, 7.35, News, 7.40, News, 7.45, News, 7.50, News, 7.55, News, 8.00, News, 8.05, News, 8.10, News, 8.15, News, 8.20, News, 8.25, News, 8.30, News, 8.35, News, 8.40, News, 8.45, News, 8.50, News, 8.55, News, 9.00, News, 9.05, News, 9.10, News, 9.15, News, 9.20, News, 9.25, News, 9.30, News, 9.35, News, 9.40, News, 9.45, News, 9.50, News, 9.55, News, 10.00, News, 10.05, News, 10.10, News, 10.15, News, 10.20, News, 10.25, News, 10.30, News, 10.35, News, 10.40, News, 10.45, News, 10.50, News, 10.55, News, 11.00, News, 11.05, News, 11.10, News, 11.15, News, 11.20, News, 11.25, News, 11.30, News, 11.35, News, 11.40, News, 11.45, News, 11.50, News, 11.55, News, 12.00, News, 12.05, News, 12.10, News, 12.15, News, 12.20, News, 12.25, News, 12.30, News, 12.35, News, 12.40, News, 12.45, News, 12.50, News, 12.55, News, 1.00, News, 1.05, News, 1.10, News, 1.15, News, 1.20, News, 1.25, News, 1.30, News, 1.35, News, 1.40, News, 1.45, News, 1.50, News, 1.55, News, 2.00, News, 2.05, News, 2.10, News, 2.15, News, 2.20, News, 2.25, News, 2.30, News, 2.35, News, 2.40, News, 2.45, News, 2.50, News, 2.55, News, 3.00, News, 3.05, News, 3.10, News, 3.15, News, 3.20, News, 3.25, News, 3.30, News, 3.35, News, 3.40, News, 3.45, News, 3.50, News, 3.55, News, 4.00, News, 4.05, News, 4.10, News, 4.15, News, 4.20, News, 4.25, News, 4.30, News, 4.35, News, 4.40, News, 4.45, News, 4.50, News, 4.55, News, 5.00, News, 5.05, News, 5.10, News, 5.15, News, 5.20, News, 5.25, News, 5.30, News, 5.35, News, 5.40, News, 5.45, News, 5.50, News, 5.55, News, 6.00, News, 6.05, News, 6.10, News, 6.15, News, 6.20, News, 6.25, News, 6.30, News, 6.35, News, 6.40, News, 6.45, News, 6.50, News, 6.55, News, 7.00, News, 7.05, News, 7.10, News, 7.15, News, 7.20, News, 7.25, News, 7.30, News, 7.35, News, 7.40, News, 7.45, News, 7.50, News, 7.55, News, 8.00, News, 8.05, News, 8.10, News, 8.15, News, 8.20, News, 8.25, News, 8.30, News, 8.35, News, 8.40, News, 8.45, News, 8.50, News, 8.55, News, 9.00, News, 9.05, News, 9.10, News, 9.15, News, 9.20, News, 9.25, News, 9.30, News, 9.35, News, 9.40, News, 9.45, News, 9.50, News, 9.55, News, 10.00, News, 10.05, News, 10.10, News, 10.15, News, 10.20, News, 10.25, News, 10.30, News, 10.35, News, 10.40, News, 10.45, News, 10.50, News, 10.55, News, 11.00, News, 11.05, News, 11.10, News, 11.15, News, 11.20, News, 11.25, News, 11.30, News, 11.35, News, 11.40, News, 11.45, News, 11.50, News, 11.55, News, 12.00, News, 12.05, News, 12.10, News, 12.15, News, 12.20, News, 12.25, News, 12.30, News, 12.35, News, 12.40, News, 12.45, News, 12.50, News, 12.55, News, 1.00, News, 1.05, News, 1.10, News, 1.15, News, 1.20, News, 1.25, News, 1.30, News, 1.35, News, 1.40, News, 1.45, News, 1.50, News, 1.55, News, 2.00, News, 2.05, News, 2.10, News, 2.15, News, 2.20, News, 2.25, News, 2.30, News, 2.35, News, 2.40, News, 2.45, News, 2.50, News, 2.55, News, 3.00, News, 3.05, News, 3.10, News, 3.15, News, 3.20, News, 3.25, News, 3.30, News, 3.35, News, 3.40, News, 3.45, News, 3.50, News, 3.55, News, 4.00, News, 4.05, News, 4.10, News, 4.15, News, 4.20, News, 4.25, News, 4.30, News, 4.35, News, 4.40, News, 4.45, News, 4.50, News, 4.55, News, 5.00, News, 5.05, News, 5.10, News, 5.15, News, 5.20, News, 5.25, News, 5.30, News, 5.35, News, 5.40, News, 5.45, News, 5.50, News, 5.55, News, 6.00, News, 6.05, News, 6.10, News, 6.15, News, 6.20, News, 6.25, News, 6.30, News, 6.35, News, 6.40, News, 6.45, News, 6.50, News, 6.55, News, 7.00, News, 7.05, News, 7.10, News, 7.15, News, 7.20, News, 7.25, News, 7.30, News, 7.35, News, 7.40, News, 7.45, News, 7.50, News, 7.55, News, 8.00, News, 8.05, News, 8.10, News, 8.15, News, 8.20, News, 8.25, News, 8.30, News, 8.35, News, 8.40, News, 8.45, News, 8.50, News, 8.55, News, 9.00, News, 9.05, News, 9.10, News, 9.15, News, 9.20, News, 9.25, News, 9.30, News, 9.35, News, 9.40, News, 9.45, News, 9.50, News, 9.55, News, 10.00, News, 10.05, News, 10.10, News, 10.15, News, 10.20, News, 10.25, News, 10.30, News, 10.35, News, 10.40, News, 10.45, News, 10.50, News, 10.55, News, 11.00, News, 11.05, News, 11.10, News, 11.15, News, 11.20, News, 11.25, News, 11.30, News, 11.35, News, 11.40, News, 11.45, News, 11.50, News, 11.55, News, 12.00, News, 12.05, News, 12.10, News, 12.15, News, 12.20, News, 12.25, News, 12.30, News, 12.35, News, 12.40, News, 12.45, News, 12.50, News, 12.55, News, 1.00, News, 1.05, News, 1.10, News, 1.15, News, 1.20, News, 1.25, News, 1.30, News, 1.35, News, 1.40, News, 1.45, News, 1.50, News, 1.55, News, 2.00, News, 2.05, News, 2.10, News, 2.15, News, 2.20, News, 2.25, News, 2.30, News, 2.35, News, 2.40, News, 2.45, News, 2.50, News, 2.55, News, 3.00, News, 3.05, News, 3.10, News, 3.15, News, 3.20, News, 3.25, News, 3.30, News, 3.35, News, 3.40, News, 3.45, News, 3.50, News, 3.55, News, 4.00, News, 4.05, News, 4.10, News, 4.15, News, 4.20, News, 4.25, News, 4.30, News, 4.35, News, 4.40, News, 4.45, News, 4.50, News, 4.55, News, 5.00, News, 5.05, News, 5.10, News, 5.15, News, 5.20, News, 5.25, News, 5.30, News, 5.35, News, 5.40, News, 5.45, News, 5.50, News, 5.55, News, 6.00, News, 6.05, News, 6.10, News, 6.15, News, 6.20, News, 6.25, News, 6.30, News, 6.35, News, 6.40, News, 6.45, News, 6.50, News, 6.55, News, 7.00, News, 7.05, News, 7.10, News, 7.15, News, 7.20, News, 7.25, News, 7.30, News, 7.35, News, 7.40, News, 7.45, News, 7.50, News, 7.55, News, 8.00, News, 8.05, News, 8.10, News, 8.15, News, 8.20, News, 8.25, News, 8.30, News, 8.35, News, 8.40, News, 8.45, News, 8.50, News, 8.55, News, 9.00, News, 9.05, News, 9.10, News, 9.15, News, 9.20, News, 9.25, News, 9.30, News, 9.35, News, 9.40, News, 9.45, News, 9.50, News, 9.55, News, 10.00, News, 10.05, News, 10.10, News, 10.15, News, 10.20, News, 10.25, News, 10.30, News, 10.35, News, 10.40, News, 10.45, News, 10.50, News, 10.55, News, 11.00, News, 11.05, News, 11.10, News, 11.15, News, 11.20, News, 11.25, News, 11.30, News, 11.35, News, 11.40, News, 11.45, News, 11.50, News, 11.55, News, 12.00, News, 12.05, News, 12.10, News, 12.15, News, 12.20, News, 12.25, News, 12.30, News, 12.35, News, 12.40, News, 12.45, News, 12.50, News, 12.55, News, 1.00, News, 1.05, News, 1.10, News, 1.15, News, 1.20, News, 1.25, News, 1.30, News, 1.35, News, 1.40, News, 1.45, News, 1.50, News, 1.55, News, 2.00, News, 2.05, News, 2.10, News, 2.15, News, 2.20, News, 2.25, News, 2.30, News, 2.35, News, 2.40, News, 2.45, News, 2.50, News, 2.55, News, 3.00, News, 3.05, News, 3.10, News, 3.15, News, 3.20, News, 3.25, News, 3.30, News, 3.35, News, 3.40, News, 3.45, News, 3.50, News, 3.55, News, 4.00, News, 4.05, News, 4.10, News, 4.15, News, 4.20, News, 4.25, News, 4.30, News, 4.35, News, 4.40, News, 4.45, News, 4.50, News, 4.55, News, 5.00, News, 5.05, News, 5.10, News, 5.15, News, 5.20, News, 5.25, News, 5.30, News, 5.35, News, 5.40, News, 5.45, News, 5.50, News, 5.55, News, 6.00, News, 6.05, News, 6.10, News, 6.15, News, 6.20, News, 6.25, News, 6.30, News, 6.35, News, 6.40, News, 6.45, News, 6.50, News, 6.55, News, 7.00, News, 7.05, News, 7.10, News, 7.15, News, 7.20, News, 7.25, News, 7.30, News, 7.35, News, 7.40, News, 7.45, News, 7.50, News, 7.55, News, 8.00, News, 8.05, News, 8.10, News, 8.15, News, 8.20, News, 8.25, News, 8.30, News, 8.